Arrival of the Overland Mail—Election of Latham, the Administration Candidate for Governor—Probable Success of the Entire Administration Ticket—Business Dull—Shipping.

ST. LOUIS, Sunday, Oct. 2.

The Overland Mail with San Francisco dates of the 9th ult. arrived this evening.

The State election on the 7th resulted in the undoubted choice of MILTON S. LATHAM, the Lecompton Democratic candidate for Governor, by a large majority, perhaps 20,000. Messrs. SCOTT and BURCHALL are probably elected to Congress, although their opponents, Messrs. BAKER and MCKIBBEN, who received the united vote of the Republican and Anti-Lecompton parties, have the benefit of a slight doubt in their favor. The Anti-Lecompton candidate for State Printer, who was also supported by the Republicans, has a slight chance of election. With these possible exceptions, the Democratic Lecompton State ticket is elected by an immense majority. Both branches of the Legislature are largely Democratic. It would be about a week before the official returns were counted.

The "People's Reform" ticket, being the regular succession of that inaugurated in 1856 by the Vigilance Committee, has again triumphed in San Francisco by a handsome majority.

Since the sailing of the steamer of the 5th, business had been a good deal interfered with by the State election, and but a light demand for goods for the country had been experienced. A number of arrivals had occurred from Atlantic and foreign ports, from which a few sales are reported. The market remained firm, and quotations unchanged.

Arrived at San Francisco since the 5th, ships Flying Dragon, WATSON, Boston, May 8; Witch of the Wave, TODD, New-York, April 24; John Knox, (Br.,) GINN, Liverpool, April 4; Le Phare, (Fr.,) MAILLART, Bordeaux, March 21; Zanzibar, POLACK, of and from Hamburg, May 7; Caroline, ——, Sydney, N. S. W. Sailed from San Francisco, ships Golden West, PINKHAM, New-York; Carrie Leland, ——, Sydney, N. S. W.; Cumberland, ——, Melbourne.

The British ship Forest Monarch was wrecked on the 24th ult., while on her way from San Francisco to Puget Sound.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Army Contracts—The New Commissioners of the Land Office—The President Goes to Wheatland—The Postmaster-General on Duty—Fillibustering.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Oct. 3.

Although the bids for army transportation have been opened it is understood no contracts will be made for some days. The Department will especially take care that troops in Utah shall be promptly supplied. It was stated in the advertisement inviting proposals, that the right would be "reserved of rejecting any or all bids which might be offered," and this, it is presumed, was in view of the fact that some might be so low as not to insure a compliance with the public demands.

The new Commissioner of the Land-office, ex-Member of Congress SMITH, of Tennessee, will enter upon his duties next week.

The President will leave Washington to-morrow or Wednesday, for a brief sojourn at Wheatland.

Mr. LISBOA was to-day formally received as Minister from Brazil.

The Postmaster has returned. He resumed his duties to-day.

Additional reports have reached this city from respectable sources of a contemplated filibustering invasion of Central America. If it shall appear that an expedition for this purpose is in progress, every means will be taken to intercept it. The orders heretofore issued by this Government on that subject are in full force.

STATE FAIRS.

New-York State Fair.

FIRST DAY—ACCOMMODATIONS—SHOW OF STOCK—TELEGRAPHIC FACILITIES.

ALBANY, N. Y., Monday, Oct. 3.

The State Fair opened well to-day. The accommodations on the ground for the exhibitors are far superior to the average. A large amount of stock has already arrived, and the display of horses and cattle promises to be very brilliant.

The American Telegraph Company have extended their lines to the Fair Ground, and will establish an office there during the exhibition.

The Fair at St. Louis—Immense Crowd Present—Award of Premiums upon the Race Course—Female Equestrians.

ST. LOUIS, Monday, Oct. 3.

Although the Fair has been prolonged two days beyond the allotted time, the interest in it is unabated, upwards of 20,000 persons being on the grounds to-day.

For thorough bred stallions over four years of age, the first premium, $100, was awarded to Waterloo, owned by T. B. POINDEXTER, of New-Orleans.

For thorough-bred mares over four years of age, Mary Weller took the first prize, owned by G. W. GOODE, of St. Louis County, Mo.

The sweepstakes premium of $300 for the best stallion of any age, was awarded to Doubloon, a thoroughbred, owned by H. S. MOORE, of Cooper County, Mo.

For the best mare of any age, the premium, $200, was awarded to Belle Sheridan, owned by J. S. MORRISON, of Lexington, Ky.

During the afternoon a spirited contest for a prize of $1,000 occurred between Flora Temple, Princess, Ike Cook, Green Mountain and Hiram Woodruff. Flora Temple was the winner.

A display of female equestrianism also took place during the afternoon, Miss ANN CROIX, of Beloit, Wis., carrying off the first prize.

AN ARREST FOR FORGERY—MILITARY EN ROUTE TO NEW-YORK.

HONESDALE, Monday, Oct. 3.

ANDREW J. WHITE, of Morse's Indian Root Pills notoriety, was brought here to-day from New-York in custody of Sheriff TURNER, to answer an indictment for forgery upon ANGEL, of this county, and placed in jail.

EASTON, Penn., Monday, Oct. 3.

The Washington Artillerists, of Pottsville, arrived here this afternoon, and were received at the depot by the Citizen Artillery, Capt. DACHIODT; the National Guards, Capt. STONEBACK; and the Easton Yagers, Capt. GLANZ. They were escorted to Masonic Hall, where Col. PHILIP JOHNSON most cordially welcomed them. They then partook of a collation, and subsequently turned out on parade. A grand ball will be given in their honor to-night. The Artillerists are the guests of the Citizen Artillery. They leave for New-York at 8½ o'clock to-morrow morning.

YACHT RACE IN THE DELAWARE.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Oct. 3.

A yacht race came off here to-day, for the champion's flag. None but 22 feet yachts were allowed to enter. The Theodore Esling beat the Champion, of GEORGE M. HILL, eight minutes.

ACCIDENT TO AN AMERICAN IN SWITZERLAND—INAUGURATION OF THE OPERA SEASON.

BOSTON, Monday, Oct. 3.

A private letter from Berne, Switzerland, states that Mr. CARPENTER, of the bank-note engraving house of Philadelphia, was very dangerously injured by being precipitated down a mountain pass.

The opera season was inaugurated this evening at the Boston Theatre, with CORTESI and GASSIER. A crowded and fashionable audience attested their appreciation of the merits of the artists, and greeted them with great applause.

Connecticut Town Elections.

SUCCESSES OF THE REPUBLICANS.

NEW-LONDON, Conn., Monday, Oct. 3.

At the town election here, to-day, the Republicans elected their entire ticket by a majority of about 100. For Town Clerk, the vote stood: GILES BAILEY, Republican, 448; DENNIS, Democrat, 351.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Monday, Oct. 3.

In the city elections held here to-day, SILAS C. BOOTH, Republican, was elected Mayor, over E. B. GOODRICH, Democrat, by 85 majority—a gain of about 50. The Republicans also elect all the Aldermen, Councilmen, and other city officers, by an average majority of about 8.

Destructive Fires.

FACTORY BURNT IN CONNECTICUT—AN ENGINE-HOUSE DESTROYED IN LYNN, MASS.

BOSTON, Monday, Oct. 3.

The factory of the Peck & Smith Manufacturing Company, at Southington, Conn., was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon, with its contents. Loss about $75,000; insured for $50,000 in Hartford offices.

LYNN, Mass., Monday, Oct. 3.

The engine-house of Volunteer Company No. 8, of this city, was totally destroyed by fire this morning, together with the hose-carriage, hose, etc. The engine was nearly destroyed. The building was new, and had been occupied by the Company but for a few days. Loss about $4,000.

Rumors of Another Fillibuster Expedition.

A FRENCH DESCENT UPON NICARAGUA THREATENED.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Oct. 3.

A special Washington dispatch to the North American says that another formidable fillibuster expedition is preparing against Nicaragua. A portion has succeeded in leaving New-York and Charleston; but no demonstration is to be made until the plans are fully matured. Gen. WHEAT is to have an important position in the crusade.

[A similar dispatch received by the Philadelphia Ledger, varies only in substituting New-York for Newport.]—ED. TIMES.

Vermont—Murder Trial at Burlington.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Monday, Oct. 3.

PETER MCDONNELL, JOHN BAIN and JOHN KELLEY have been on trial here for murder for the last five days. The jury returned the following verdict this evening: PETER MCDONNELL, guilty; JOHN BAIN and JOHN KELLEY, not guilty. MCDONNELL was remanded and the others discharged.

THE FIRST CASE OF THE SEASON.

NEW-ORLEANS, Monday, Oct. 3.

The first case of yellow fever this season was reported to-day.

THE MANIA FOR BALLOONING.

The Missing Aeronauts.

LA MOUNTAIN AND HADDOCK COME TO EARTH IN THE CANADIAN STEPPES—ADVENTURES AND SUFFERINGS—THE ATLANTIC A TOTAL WRECK.

TROY, N. Y., Monday, Oct. 3.

A dispatch was received in this city this evening from Prof. LA MOUNTAIN, dated Ottawa, C. W., Oct. 3. It is as follows:

Lost all. Landed three hundred miles north of Watertown, in the Canada wilderness. We were four days without food. Brought out by Indian guides in canoes, &c. Please inform my wife.

(Signed.) JNO. LA MOUNTAIN.

OTTAWA, C. W., Monday, Oct. 3.

Professor LA MOUNTAIN and Mr. HADDOCK came into Ottawa to-day, having landed one hundred and fifty miles north of Ottawa, in the great Canada wilderness. They were brought out by Indian guides, in bark canoes. They traveled in their balloon three hundred miles, and were up in the air only from four to five hours. For over four days they have been in the wilderness without food, and with no means of striking a fire. They were rescued most providentially by a Mr. CAMERON, who was hauling timber with Indian guides.

How an Aeronaut Came Down with an Improvised Parachute.

A telegram has announced the perilous descent of Messrs. COE and COTTMAN in the Rome swamp. The Utica Herald gives the following account of the adventures of the party:

"We have already noticed the ascension from the Fair Grounds at Rome, on Thursday, of Mr. COE and Mr. JOSEPH S. COTTMAN, and have briefly recorded their rapid descent, owing to an accident to the balloon which took them sky-ward. Yesterday, we met the gentlemen who made the trip, and from their own lips learned the particulars of the exciting voyage. We annex the narrative of Messrs. COE and COTTMAN:

They started at precisely 4 o'clock—the ascent was rapid after reaching an altitude of about 200 feet. The balloon at first took a northwesterly course, but at a height of about a mile took a due south course for a distance of about five miles; then at a height of over two miles, the balloon struck the famous easterly current so often alluded to by balloonists.

The body of the balloon was constantly expanding from the effects of the heat and air. There were clouds below floating in the air, and the reflection of the sun's light upon the air vessel was very perceptible. The glare at times was almost blinding. When the easterly current was reached, the balloon drifted toward the East at a speed of about thirty miles per hour, and the voyagers were in high glee. At this point the scene below was grand in the extreme—the earth had almost assumed the aspect of a piece of mosaic work—some objects were not visible, yet streams, villages and cities were discernible as distinct objects on the surface.

At about twenty minutes before 5 Mr. COE discovered that a part of the apparatus pertaining to the safety-valve of his balloon was deranged, and was so located that it could not be restored. He at once attempted to discharge the gas from the upper valve, in order to descend—conscious that the difficulty alluded to could not be overcome. The valve at the top worked well—but the pressure on the safety-valve (which had been deranged) from the lower part of the balloon was so great that an explosion followed, causing a rent in the balloon from the lower valve to its greatest circumference. The rent was some forty feet in length.

The sound accompanying the explosion was about equivalent to the discharge of a musket. In about one minute after, the descent was so rapid as to increase the rent in the texture of the balloon about fifty feet, thus leaving almost the entire upper portion of the air vessel open. In half a minute after the second rent was discovered there was not a foot of gas in the balloon. For nearly half a mile the voyagers came down at a most terrific speed—feeling the same sensation that one experiences in a high swing in rapid motion. The silk and cordage, as the balloon oscillated, caused a rattling sound like the rigging of a ship in a storm.

Descending half a mile, the main portion of the balloon was thrown on one side of the netting, and caused the air vessel to sway violently, and the basket and passengers were raised to an even height with the valve of the vessel itself. This motion was experienced several times, and as often was broken by the self-possession of the acronauts in changing their position in the car. Finally this swaying motion was increased until they succeeded in forming a parachute of the remnants of the balloon, when the rapid rate of speed in their descent was measurably impeded. During the last half mile, before reaching the earth, their rate of speed was but a trifle more rapid than that of the ordinary descent of a well-ordered balloon.

When reaching a point within 100 feet of the tops of the trees near Pond Knolls in the Rome Swamp, each of the passengers, having a sand-bag ready to throw out, discharged this amount of weight, and the balloon concluded its descent to the ground with less speed. The passengers were suspended some seventy feet in the air, on the limbs of one of the tallest trees in the swamp, while the balloon spread itself over several other forest trees. By good fortune Messrs. COE and COTTMAN reached terra firma in safety, after making a graceful descent from the tree. Arriving in the swamp in safety, they partook of refreshments remaining in the car, and gave three enthusiastic cheers for the fortunate result of their perilous trip.

In ten or fifteen minutes, the farmers in the neighborhood arrived and furnished the voyagers with necessary assistance.

At the moment of the explosion, Mr. COTTMAN asked Mr. COE what was to be done? The aeronaut assured him that the balloon would come down all right, except at a fearful rate of speed.

At once the grapple and ropes were thrown out and all the extra weight, except the sand bags. The aerial excursionists were perfectly cool and conversed together during their descent. But for their presence of mind, they would not probably have escaped alive. They both assure us that after the balloon formed into a parachute, they had not the slightest fear of harm. But for the few seconds after the explosion, when the car and remnants of the balloon were swaying alternately above each other, their fears could not be suppressed.

Yesterday afternoon the balloon was brought to Rome in a damaged condition. An examination of the air-ship satisfied Mr. COE that the appliance called a "safety-valve," which he invented himself, and which is designed to work by a rope from the outside of the balloon, had been damaged before he started on the trip, and as a consequence could not be made serviceable. This valve is underneath the main valve, and is calculated to open and close accordingly as the air and heat may expand or depress the body of the balloon. Once finally closed, beyond the power of operating it, the expansion of the gas under the influence of an extraordinary heat became too great for the endurance of the fabric of which the balloon was constructed, and the explosion followed, as a matter of course.

The apple crop at the Eastward has failed this year on account of the late Spring frosts, which nipped the buds.

FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE TEUTONIA.

London Journals a Day Later.

The screw-steamship Teutonia, from Southampton on the 17th inst., arrived at this port yesterday.

The intelligence she brings has been anticipated by the Asia at this port, and, telegraphically, by the Hungarian at Quebec; but we obtain London papers one day later than those previously received.

There is nothing additional of interest.

The correspondent of the Times writes from Vienna on the 13th:

"The Wiener Zeitung of to-day contains the following official article, which is more particularly addressed to the Vienna stock-jobbers, who profess to consider the Moniteur's note an alarming rather than a tranquillizing document:

'Yesterday's mail brought that Moniteur's article from which extracts were, two days ago, forwarded to this city by electric telegraph. They who see in a good understanding between Austria and France a guarantee for the maintenance of peace and order, will, with great satisfaction, have become acquainted with the advice which the French Government, by means of its official organ, has given to the inhabitants of Central Italy, who are summoned (aufgefordert) again to place themselves under their hereditary Princes. Seen from this point of view, the article in the Moniteur can but increase the hope that peace will speedily be concluded, and dispel those apprehensions which have hitherto prevented confidence being felt in a solution of the questions pending, and consequently a general feeling of security.'

Alluding to the death of Mr. BRUNEL, the Times says:

"The lamented gentleman was brought home from the Great Eastern steamship at midday on the 5th instant, in a very alarming condition, having been seized with paralysis, induced, it was believed, by over mental anxiety. Mr. BRUNEL, in spite of the most skilful medical treatment, continued to sink, and at 10½ o'clock on Thursday night he expired at the comparatively early age of 54 years."

Troops for the Chinese War.

From the London Times, Sept. 17.

Nothing is more universally delightful than suddenly discovering some good use for a thing, especially if the thing itself happens to have been rather in the way than otherwise. There are people, indeed, who indulge this sentiment to such excess that they will incur double expense for the sake of a single saving, and will spend more money in finding a place for some odd piece of furniture than it would have cost them to have the whole thing new from top to bottom. When, however, the two things can be really and truly fitted to each other, and when an incommodious article can all at once be converted into an absolute convenience, there is no end to the satisfaction of thrifty housekeepers. Now, this is precisely what may come to pass with the discharged Europeans at Calcutta, and we must say that we should sadly repine over the loss of so inviting an opportunity.

At Raneegunge, in the vicinity of Calcutta, there are now in cantonments some 5,000 European soldiers, who, in consequence of proceedings which we need not recapitulate, are waiting for a passage to this country. They are neither invalids nor veterans—that is to say, as far as regards their mere efficiency for further service, they would have had no claim to their discharge. Many of them, indeed, are quite young men, who have only been in India a year or thirteen months at the furthest, and who have seen just enough real campaigning to make them all the better troops. They have no objection whatever to the military profession; on the contrary their expectations turn upon reenlistment, with the agreeable contingency of a bounty. They are calculating on a pleasant three months' voyage, to be followed by a fresh engagement, and a fresh start in the army—that is all. Supposing things turn out for the best, they hope to arrive here about the beginning of next year, when they would promptly come to terms with the recruiting sergeant, and take service in a regiment to be dispatched, perhaps, to China or to India once more. So clearly are these the views of the majority that Lord CLYDE has warned the men, in a general order, against expecting that their past service is to be counted in their favor after reenlistment. In the meanwhile, however, there they lie at Raneegunge, in no good odor with the authorities, and by this time perhaps only half satisfied with themselves. A few, in fact, have actually reenlisted, and have returned to their colors again, though for the most part they will think, of course, that they have gone too far to recede, and that, once in for the matter, however it may turn out, they had better go through with it.

But cannot we fit this rather wrongheaded, but not wholly blameable, batch of men into the best of all places for them? Must we really bring them all the way from the East to England before we can send them from England to the East again? In this very nick of time we are in especial want of men for a Chinese expedition—by no means an unpromising piece of campaigning, for China is the land of prize-money and ransoms, and we are not likely to be surprised twice over. Now, would not anybody think that if these 5,000 soldiers, at present halting between two services, were fairly spoken to, they would be glad enough to retrieve their position by going to China at once! There are but two leading ideas with which they seem to have been possessed. The first was that of getting a new bounty, and if they had been indulged so far we should have heard no more of the affair. The second was that of shaking off the obligation of permanent service in India, and obtaining an immediate change. In neither of these propossessions is there anything to militate against a diversion toward China. Supposing they were reënlisted—this time in the service of the Queen—and gratified with a fresh bounty, they would then be available, like any other of her Majesty's troops, for service in China, and would be already, as it were, on the spot. The best way, of course, would be to let them understand at once that this was the service in contemplation for them, and that they owed their chance to the accident of the emergency. If such appeal were made to them we cannot but believe that it would be successful. At one stroke, in fact, they would regain what they had lost, and get all they wanted too. They would escape from the dullness of Indian cantonments, to which they would never, except in the common routine of temporary duty, be liable to return. They would start upon active service, they would receive their bounty, and they would be restored to a good position in the army. Let these prospects be but set before them in plain words, and we feel convinced they would follow good officers to the very gates of Peking.

The difficulty is how to make the arrangement in time, how to prevent these 5,000 disciplined and ready-armed men from taking ship for the West before there is a chance of diverting them to the East. What might we not save at this moment in time, men, and money if our telegraphic communication with India were but complete! In the space of ten days or a fortnight we could not only transmit instructions, but learn whether the instructions had been successful. Literally before the end of the month, that is to say, within three weeks of the first intelligence of the Chinese disaster, we might hear that 5,000 acclimatized troops were preparing to retrieve it. Even as it is, there is surely some chance, for, through the acceleration due to the existing branch of the line, we can communicate with Calcutta in 18 days—a very different matter from the four months' voyage of thirty years ago. If the affair could be well managed, it would be about the most agreeable piece of fortune possible—a hit on which nobody could have speculated, but which would have a most marvellous effect in setting all things right together. Nothing, indeed, beyond a force of this kind, with a native contingent and a few vessels from this country, is wanted for the reëstablishment of our position. The ambuscade at the Pei-ho is not an exploit to be repeated, while, as to our trade with China, it seems to be the prevalent and, doubtless, accurate impression that the policy of that remarkable empire will not permit a lucrative commerce to be interrupted by the mere casualty of war.

Assuming, however, that the reëngagement of those disposable Europeans should not be practicable, we must still repeat what we have before remarked, that we already possess in the East a force large enough to overrun even the mighty Chinese Empire. It never seems to have occurred to us in estimating the value of India that, besides the omnigenous produce of its soil, it is a perfect nursery of soldiers. Yet we ought to feel this sensible enough, for we found within the last two years that the pettiest chieftain or the wildest adventurer could always extemporize an army. To the very latest hour of the campaign, when the chances of successful revolt had become utterly extinct there was no Rajah or refugee so insignificant but could raise his thousands of men, and not only that, but could collect as many more over again after the first levy had been routed. India has a population of 150,000,000, and that enormous aggregate includes, probably, more men who are instinctively fighting men than any population in the world. Add to that redoubtable power a background of British resources and a mainspring of Anglo-Saxon daring, and what do we not obtain? Why, India itself, irrespectively of England, or at least of anything but English Government, is one of the most formidable Powers of the East; while China is convulsed by chronic revolution, and destitute of all resources save those of passive bulk and treacherous cunning. We have our work to do, certainly, but it need not give us much trouble, at least at home.

LORD DERBY'S EVICTIONS IN IRELAND.

Correspondence of the London Times.

DUBLIN, Friday, Sept. 16, 1859.

The Derry paper proceeds to give the annexed information with regard to the management of the estates in question:

"It is, we believe, a fact that ever since the famine years not a single lease which has expired upon the noble Earl's Tipperary estate has been renewed to an Irish tenant, the lapsed holdings having been invariably given to tenants from England, with one exception, to be presently noticed. This exception occurred in the case of the late Dr. HEFFERNAN, of Cashel, who in that borough, in 1852, supported the Liberal candidate, while he wrought for the Tories in the County, and took with him a considerable section of the Liberals. Dr. HEFFERNAN, it is understood, obtained from Lord DERBY a renewed lease, while every other Irish tenant, whether Protestant or Roman Catholic, Liberal or Tory, has been steadily refused that privilege during the period mentioned. This is our information respecting the management of Lord DERBY's property in Tipperary, and it may be reasonably conjectured that the intended clearance is a plan contrived to accomplish other objects besides the expression of 'utter displeasure' at the people for their ignorance of the plots and secrets of murderers. Notwithstanding the fiery zeal of our Ultramontane declaimers, whenever they want to bring popular gullibility to a good market, not a syllable have they ever whispered about this landlordism of the great Tory Premier, in the very centre of the 'golden' inheritance consecrated by destiny as the promised possession of the Clanna Mileadh. How is this ominous silence to be interpreted? What is its significance to the people of Ireland? What are the considerations, rewards, or inducements in the hands of a Tory Prime Minister, in virtue of which considerations, rewards, &c., the said Prime Minister is permitted to exterminate as many 'poor Celts' as he pleases, filling up their places with lusty, beef-eating Saxons? These are questions which the Irish people will surely begin to ask themselves very soon, and it might be wise, on the part of the Ultramontane Brigade, to anticipate this reckoning day, by stating what it is that they have been getting, or expecting from Derbyism, in return for this expungement of the native tenantry from the plains of Munster? There must exist behind the scenes some counter-interest stronger than love of the Irish people, mightier far than all patriotic sympathy with their hard endurances; and what, then, is this mysterious equivalent?"

With regard to the step about to be taken by Lord DERBY there is, of course, the usual diversity of opinion at this side of the Channel whenever the unhappy land question is brought before the public. It is, therefore, almost needless to remark that the sympathies of the landlord Press are enlisted on the side of the noble proprietor; and it must in fairness be admitted that the arguments put forward to sustain the apparent harshness of the proceeding are by no means without force. The old sore is still unhealed—the spread of the social revolution notwithstanding.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FAIR.

Fourth and Fifth Days at Palace Garden—The Steam Plow and other Massive Machinery—Agricultural Implements—Southern Inventions, &c.

The steam plow has arrived at last. It marched into the yard adjoining Palace Garden on Friday, and took a few turns about the premises to demonstrate its ability to turn short corners and travel at ease, but the plows were not permitted to disturb the sod—there was hardly enough of it to make it worth while to spoil the walking. The immense machine weighs twelve tons. It is the invention of J. W. FAWERS, was patented Jan. 26, 1858, and was built at Philadelphia. It gets its traction by means of an immense wooden roller, which has a three-inch bilge. This barrel-form of the roller, and the fact that it is constructed of wood rather than iron, gives it some special advantages over the steam plow that was invented in Scotland. The roller of that was a perfect cylinder, and of iron. When it turned it cut up the ground wickedly. This, as was yesterday shown, turns short without disturbing the surface. To the motive power are attached two gangs of four plows each, turning the sod nine feet in width at once. It is claimed that on a prairie this machine would do its work at 33 per cent. of the cost by the plows in common use. On some day, a week or two hence, this and all the other new plows on exhibition will be set to work as competitors. The occasion will be widely advertised, so that all the country round may be present to see the sight.

The big engine was in operation, on Friday, furnishing power to all the heavy machinery that was in order. First along side of it was an eminently lively little pump and fire engine—"Woodward's No. 3,"—with a steam cylinder of 7 inches, and a water cylinder of 3½ inches diameter, discharging some 70 gallons of water per minute. This one costs $250. Though never before exhibited, it is used in several buildings in the City for supplying steamboilers and for pumping water into reservoirs in the upper stories. By opening a valve connected to the discharge-outlet, it is ready for use as a fire engine.

C. A. SHULTZ exhibits a steam engine with a new cut-off, (patented last April,) which claims a large saving of power.

TODD & RAFFERTY, of Patterson, N. J., exhibit a new portable steam engine, fitted with UHRY & LUTZGEN'S cut-off. The advantage claimed for it is the perfect and variable cut-off, which is controlled by the governor, thereby securing both a regularity of motion, and the almost effective degree of expansion, with only the use of a single plain slide-valve.

A single-horse power engine, built on WOBL's patent, (1859,) an eccentric rotary, which does away with the crank, and whose revolving cylinder forms the balance-wheel, is a novelty. The cost of the size exhibited is $25.

WAGNER'S rice and grain-hulling machine was for a short time during Friday afternoon engaged in hulling buckwheat, which it did perfectly. The novelty of the machine is that the runner or muller is of rubber, —so that the grain is hustled about between an elastic and a hard surface. The sulphurous odor is got rid of by using a rubber prepared by JOCELYN'S new patent process of vulcanizing. Whether the same process could be applied to the India-rubber which is wrought into the thousand and one articles of clothing, we failed to learn,—a small portion only of the machinery has yet been geared on to the long shaft that whizzes overhead the length of the machine shed, and hence no notice of much of it can yet be intelligently written.

There is a large display of agricultural implements, some old and well-tried, and many new applicants for favorable consideration. At least half a dozen new mowers are on the ground. E. J. & JEROME, of Mineola, Long Island, have one which professes to cut with two horses 10 or 15 acres of grass or grain a day as well as it can be done with scythe or cradle, whether the crop is standing or lodged, wet or dry. The improvement is its steel fingers with cutting edges, which are riveted on the upper side of a wrought iron finger bar to permit the cut grass to pass freely back without lodging on the bar. To change the mower to a reaper, it is only necessary to take off the cant-board, put in a loose platform and raker's seat, and to raise the reel. The certificates furnished are all from Long Island farmers. The price of the combined mower and reaper is $130. HENRY MARCELLUS, of Amsterdam, has the "Empire Mower"—a new machine, which sells at $100. WALTER A. WOOD'S (of Hoosick Falls) one-horse mower weighs 395 pounds, and sells for $70, and promises to cut ten acres a day. The new features are the manner of hanging the cutter-bar, and an improved cutting-apparatus. Judges say that these new machines, furnished at such reduced prices, are not inferior to the older ones which have earned so large a reputation.

Hosts of plows are on the ground, but we noticed none that have not already been before the public.

Of plantation and farm mills there is a variety. The "Excelsior," exhibited by J. A. BENNETT, claims to be a new and improved construction of the conical burr-stone, which by turning a screw is adjusted to grinding the finest flour or the coarsest feed, heats the meal less than the flat-stone mill, is easily taken apart and dressed, and can be operated with very small power. Price $100, or, with the ordinary English bolt added, $130.

WM. H. HOVEY'S corn-sheller, (patented April, 1859,) because of its horizontal cylinder with a large shelling surface, its large hopper with which the corn can be turned by the basketful, and its dispensing with set screws and spiral springs, requires but one person to manage it, claims to break neither kernel nor cob, and to work as fast and well as the best. Of all manner of agricultural implements, Mr. C. V. MAPES makes a large display. His horse and hand grain-mill for feed, price $20, turns out three to five bushels of feed in the hour, and would give a strong man a good sweating to run it. His $40 cider-mill is compact, complete, and looks as if it would perform its promise. His ooroscope—a small box painted black within, and containing a mirror set at an angle of 45 degrees to the horizon, in which the light is reflected strongly upon the eggs set on their small ends into holes cut in the top of the box—enables a housewife to discover just how old the chick is in the egg she was about to boil for breakfast. His "Vose fire annihilator" is a double-cylinder brass pump, with two pieces of gutta-percha tubing attached—one running to the pail, or other reservoir, of water, the other through a nozzle, dispensing the water to the burning part of the building; or, with a sprinkler screwed on instead of a nozzle, furnishing a fine shower to the garden. His sausage-filler (PERRY'S patent) is a stout cast-iron cylinder curved into a quarter of a circle, into which a piston is worked by a lever from above—a promising implement, that can never get out of order, for converting fat poodles into delicate links for the frying-pan, or dumplings. But the exhibitor grows most eloquent over the nitrogenized superphosphate of lime, which sells at $50 the ton; is said to be composed of phosphate of lime, sulphuric acid, Peruvian guano, sulphate of ammonia and dried blood, and is, in short, the famous manure manufactured by Prof. J. J. MAPES.

Mr. LUNQUEST heralds his newly-invented four-cylinder pump as "a Georgia invention and no Yankee humbug." It is intended for wells of any depth, has a forcing, not a suction action, and the whole pumping apparatus being submerged, it seems to be free from all danger of freezing up. Another Southern invention is DU PAR'S hydraulic elevator, for wells or for ships' pumps. It is an endless chain formed of curved links, with projections on their backs that act as buckets. Over the well a frame is mounted, carrying a flanged wheel provided with cogs between the flanges that can be rotated by another cogged wheel and crank-handle. In the bottom of the well is another frame in which a flanged guide-pulley is secured by double-beveled keys. Mr. DU PAR, the inventor, is a Raleigh man—a North Carolinian.

Housekeepers have hunted in vain for new gas-stoves, especially for parlor use. The greatest novelty in this line is one of the oldest ever exhibited in New-York—the stoves of the American Gas Company patent, which burn the gas with a downward radiation, whereby less gas is consumed, more heat obtained, and some advantages, especially in roasting and broiling, secured. The burners placed midway in a stove, the roasting goes on in the chamber below, while the heat that ascends does duty upon one, two or three chambers, as you please, for baking, and still higher for boiling. This is the principle of the stove used several years ago, with eminent success, in the Astor House kitchen. It has not been much in market since, but, financial obstacles being now wafted aside, it is ready to compete with the other admirable devices for enabling bachelors to be housekeepers, without paying tax to coal-dealers or wood-splitters.

Palace Garden enjoyed a large attendance on Friday and Saturday. The exhibitors were present in unusual numbers, to interpret the uses of their wares and explain the merits of new inventions.

THE INTERNATIONAL CRICKET MATCH.

First Day of the Contest Between the All England Eleven and the New-York Players.

THE ALL ENGLAND ELEVEN AHEAD.

That long-anticipated contest between the élite of English cricketers and the choice of American players, commenced on the Hoboken ground, yesterday. The weather was all that a cricketer could desire. The interest manifested throughout the City was extreme. As soon as the Eleven made their appearance on the steps of the Astor House, they were received by a large concourse of spectators. They immediately proceeded in a four-horse omnibus—provided for the occasion and decorated with flags—to the ground, followed by an immense string of vehicles and pedestrians. The change made in the personnel of the Eleven, since leaving Montreal, was R. CARPENTER for JOHN LILLYWHITE, the latter having hurt his finger while getting his 53 runs at that place. It had been intended that JULIUS CÆSAR should have stood Umpire, but this accident prevented us from having the pleasure of witnessing LILLYWHITE'S play. On arriving on the ground, we found that the St. George's Club had not neglected (at a considerable cost) to put the Eleven on a good ground—the wicket, especially, being well prepared. The nature of the soil is not sufficiently tough, but that arises from the want of time, the turf having been laid only this summer. A ring was densely formed round the English players, while at practice, which lasted about one hour, when the toss for choice of innings took place, resulting in favor of England; but, as with the Twenty-two of Lower Canada, they put the Twenty-two in first. Generally the winners of the toss will take advantage of this luck, but the Eleven immediately consulted together, and came to the conclusion that they would put the Twenty-two in. This was in consequence of the previous wet weather, which resulted in a "dead" ground. As soon as the Umpires—Mr. LILLYWHITE and Mr. CHAS. VINTEN—had cleared the ground, an immense ring was formed, there being at least 5,000 spectators present. It is seldom one's lot to witness such an assemblage, and it is a sufficient proof that the energy of the Committee of the St. George's Club—coupled with the valuable aid of W. P. PICKERING, Esq., in getting the English over this side of the Atlantic—that Cricket will likely become a very popular game in this country. The English were very anxious to win this particular match—having been informed, generally, that the Twenty-two would be the strongest they would have to meet during their visit on this side of the Atlantic. They were all in excellent trim, and "eager for the fray." The Eleven made their appearance in the field, and one could scarcely imagine the excitement that prevailed when the ground was cleared for the combatants. Mr. WALKER having made out the list of the "order of going in," if was soon distributed about the ground, with a correct list of both sides.

The play was commenced by LONG and WALLER going to the wickets, opposed to the bowling of GEORGE PARR and JACKSON—the former a slow bowler, and the latter a terrific fast one. We have really nothing to note, when we chronicle below the score of 38 for Twenty-two men. They began their innings at ten minutes to 12 o'clock, and it was concluded at ten minutes to 2—not a double figure being obtained. The bowling of JACKSON, however, was first-rate, and the "diddlers" of PARR, with his management of the field, seem completely to beat the batsmen. LONG played well for six singles, and HAMMOND—a very neat player—also obtained the same number, in which he made a good drive from PARR for three. We will say no more upon the play this innings, but reserve our remarks upon their merits for another occasion. After luncheon, the Eleven sent HAYWOOD and CARPENTER (two Cambridgeshire men) to the bowling of SAM WRIGHT and CRESSLEY. WRIGHT delivered the first over, off which CARPENTER made a leg-hit for three. CRESSLEY then attempted to bowl, but he was not allowed, it being most decidedly a throw, which JOHN LILLYWHITE, according to the laws of Cricket, would not allow. He, therefore, bowled but one over, being "no-balled," and COMERY was substituted for him. Several changes were made by the Manager, Mr. WALLER, but to no effect. The two had "got well in," and ere they could be parted ran up a score of 60. The fielding was not good. CARPENTER was well caught, at short-leg, by SENIOR—the ball being well played. He, however, played a splendid innings of 26, and during the stay of these two players they were frequently and loudly applauded by the about (now) 8,000 spectators. The ground was so thickly thronged that it was a great difficulty to find room for the hits of the Eleven, which were brilliant in the extreme. When the stumps were drawn, two wickets had been disposed of—82 runs—WISDEN being run out, through a mistake made by HAYWARD, his copartner, in attempting a third run. To-morrow, the game will be resumed, the renowned GEORGE PARR and HAYWARD being at the wickets, but at present it looks as if the English would carry off an easy victory. Cricket, however, is a most uncertain game, and the game is never lost until it is won. We notice many of the Twenty-two particularly fond of playing forward, which they appear to make up their mind to do. We would advise them to play more at the pitch of the ball. We conclude, now, by giving the score up to last evening, when the stumps were drawn at 5 o'clock.

WISCONSIN AGRICULTURAL FAIR.

The Articles on Exhibition—Firemen's Tournament—Military Parade, &c.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Friday, Sept. 30, 1859.

The Ninth Annual Fair of the Wisconsin State Agricultural Society is held this week in this city. The exhibition is exceedingly creditable, and the attendance of visitors large. Monday and Tuesday were occupied in receiving entries and arranging stock and articles. On Wednesday the Fair was formally opened by the President of the Society. The remainder of the week is devoted to the general exhibition, plowing match, firemen's tournament, regatta, ladies' equestrian display, an address by the Hon. ABRAM LINCOLN of Illinois, a baloon ascension by Prof. STEIVER, and a variety of other interesting and attractive performances.

Preparations, fully adequate, have been made for the accommodation of visitors and exhibitors, both by the Society and the Corporation. The grounds are located about two miles westward from the central business portion of the city, upon Spring-avenue. Access to them is furnished by cheap omnibuses constantly running. The situation of the grounds is high, dry and convenient, and commands a fine view of the light cream-colored town and of the surrounding country. Upon entering the inclosure of high board fence, containing about twenty acres of land, the visitor finds substantial structures of wood erected for Floral Hall, a Ladies' Department, Fine Arts, Machinery, Managers and Judges. A trotting course is laid out, about three-quarters of a mile in circuit; a spring, conveyed to vats, furnishes an abundant supply of water; eight or nine tents are filled with articles, and the field is dotted with numerous bazaars and booths, provided with creature comforts of every description.

A great number of mechanical inventions, labor-saving machines and works of utility, farming implements and novel machines and beautiful specimens of art and skill are on exhibition. There are many exhibitors from other States, among whom may be mentioned the proprietor of a very superior "plaster," from Grand Rapids, Mich. The stone contains from sixty to seventy per cent. of pure sulphate of lime, the balance being iron, salt and magnesia. It is cut and polished into beautiful slabs for tables, &c., or makes an excellent fertilizer when ground. It is a new article, and deserves attention. Its appearance, at least, is equal to that of the best marble.

Yesterday a grand Firemen's Tournament took place, companies from all parts of the State competing for some rich prizes. The first prize was won by a company from Racine, Wis.

A fine military display also took place, the First Regiment parading, and companies from neighboring cities participating as guests of the Milwaukee companies.

Strangers are still flocking into the city, every railroad running full trains of thirteen to fifteen passenger cars. The passage of the new steamship Milwaukee across Lake Michigan (in the Detroit and Milwaukee Railway Line) was made yesterday in five hours, with a load of passengers and freight. The new route is well patronized by the great tide of northwestern travel.

The whole number of entries of stock and articles is about two thousand.

This is, of course, exclusive of a large number from other States, exhibited but not entitled to compete for any prizes or premiums at this State Fair.

The exhibition of sewing-machines and their work is so extensive, and the attention they attract so marked, as to convince the most skeptical that the sewing-machine mania has not yet reached its decline. WHEELER & WILSON, GROVER & BAKER, and I. M. SINGER & Co. are the principal candidates for favor.

The address was delivered to-day by the Hon. ABRAM LINCOLN, of Illinois, and was listened to with attention by an immense throng.

Trials of speed of fast nags occupy the rest of the day. Many fast horses are here—among them, Reindeer, Prairie Boy and other Western favorites.

The weather has, on the whole, been propitious. Monday, indeed, was showery; but on Tuesday the sun came out, and a mild temperature and almost cloudless sky have since prevailed. Thousands of persons throng the streets and hundreds crowd the hotels. Amusements in abundance occupy the evenings, and all, from the theatre down to the small tent-show, appear to be well patronized.

It has been believed that the popularity of Fairs had touched its zenith; but no further proof of the utility and pleasure of these annual festivals need be adduced than the entire success of the present Exhibition. Yours, BADGER.

IMPORTANT FROM VENEZUELA.

Dismissal of the French Charge—Escape of Gen. Aguado—Success of the Government—The Revolutionists in Laguayra—The Progress and Promise of Events.

The steamship James Adger, from Charleston, was boarded by a boat from the bark White Wing, from Laguayra, and received on board a passenger, who supplied Mr. S. A. BERGH, Purser of the James Adger, with Venezuelan papers. Through the courtesy of Mr. BERGH we are enabled to present the following particulars of events in Venezuela:

On the 14th of September the French Chargé received his passport from the Government, with orders to quit the country within forty-eight hours. He embarked at Laguayra, on the 15th, in the French war-steamer Lucifer. His constant and determined hostility to the actual Government, and his participation in the late sanguinary revolution, finally forced the Executive to a serious measure—such as may possibly result in a collision with France, though sufficient proofs have been forwarded to Paris to substantiate all the charges against him.

Gen. AGUADO escaped from the town of Marguetia, adjacent to Laguayra, during the attack, and it is supposed that he succeeded in reaching Victoria. That town was successfully attacked and taken by the Government forces under RUBIN, who may be considered the rising military chief in Venezuela; having, in the space of thirty days, defeated the Revolutionists in half a dozen actions. Barcelona has been retaken by the Government forces under Commandante PINTO. Commandante GARRIDO totally defeated the Revolutionists under ACEVEDO, at Heguerote. SOLTILLO had been twice defeated by the Government forces under Commandante RUIZ. Gen. JOSE MARIA ZAMORA arrived in Caracas; his brother, Col. ZAMORA, defeated a party of Revolutionists belonging to the Jolitto Party. CHORONI, taken by the Revolutionists, had pronounced in favor of the Government. Gen. FALCON, the head of the revolution, was in Barquisimento; the Government forces, under Gen. RAMOS, marched against him from Valencia.

During the occupation of Laguayra by AGUADO, foreign vessels of war were much required to protect the foreign residents. A Spanish brig was seized by AGUADO to serve as a cruiser, but a Dutch war schooner compelled her prompt delivery to her Captain and crew. During the action at Laguayra on the 2d September the Spanish Consul's house was menaced by the revolutionists, on which the Spanish vessel of war in port landed a party of marines for his protection. If the town had not been taken by the Government forces on the 2d, the Spanish vessel would probably have commenced hostilities against the revolutionists, on account of the seizure of the Spanish brig, and many atrocities committed against Spanish residents. Foreign vessels of war were daily expected, which, as usual, would arrive when their services were not required. Mr. JUSPIN, the justly-esteemed American Chargé, it is said, expected two vessels daily.

The present revolution may be strictly classified as an anti-social movement—the motives being Power, Plunder and Revenge. Several estate owners and their overseers had been murdered and their property sacked in the most atrocious manner. All the most respectable citizens, young and old, turned out as volunteers and have behaved most gallantly in action, especially the company of riflemen, composed of gentlemen volunteers, who, in the attack on Laguayra, silenced the enemy's artillery, consisting of twelve pieces, principally twenty-four's, by a severe fire from the adjacent heights.

Don PEDRO GUAL, much respected as a most honorable and capable man, continued in charge of the Executive. The President, M. F. DE TOVAR, was momentarily expected from Valencia, where he had proceeded to encourage the Constitutional authorities. This gentleman is a civilian and one of the best and most patriotic of Venezuelans. One the 1st of September, when the troops left Caracas to attack Laguayra, all the ladies went to the churches, which were opened for the purpose. This expression of sympathy on the part of the fair sex no doubt animated the soldiers to double exertions. As they passed one church filled with their mothers, wives and sisters, the vivas were enthusiastic in reply to the prayers and tears of the women.

The Vivandiers fought in the ranks with great courage, and claims to have killed several of the men. Two soldiers of opposite parties, who were in hand to hand encounter, found themselves brothers, and it is needless to say the revolutionists at once gave in. Many incidents might be related, and we have to deplore the loss of several brave fellows, amongst whom is young JUAN CASANORA. Many of the common soldiers in the Revolutionist's ranks were dragged from their homes and forced into action at the sword's point. Thus often the Government forces are compelled to estroy men known to be good citizens, &c., &c.

A fire which occurred at Whitewater, Wis., Sept. 27, destroyed property to the value of $14,000 in WINCHESTER, DE WOLF & CO.'s plow warehouse. The insurance was for $9,600, chiefly in Eastern Companies, as follows: Home Company, New-York City, $1,600; Ætna, Hartford, $3,000; Hartford, Hartford, $2,000; North America, Hartford, $3,000.

From Northern Mexico.

DISORGANIZATION OF THE LIBERAL FORCES—VIDAURRI GOES OVER TO THE CHURCH PARTY—AN AMERICAN SHOT IN GUADALAJARA.

By the arrival of the Indianola at New-Orleans, we have dates from the Rio Grande to Sept. 22.

The Boletin of Monterey, reporting the late engagement between WOLL and DOBLADO, expresses the opinion that "all was lost."

ZUAZUA has withdrawn, and VIDAURRI and many others; and a want of harmony seems to reign throughout the so-called Liberal States.

It is stated that one reason of GOV. VIDAURRI's sudden return from the Liberal camp was the news that several of his fellow-citizens were plotting against him at home. Among the offenders are mentioned Gen. ARAMBERRI, MARIA DE LLANO V. MANUEL GOMEZ, Editor of the official paper of the State, who, it is said, had conspired to overturn VIDAURRI and put Col. QUIROZA in his place. The Governor, however, returned at an unexpected hour and disconcerted their plans, and all three were banished from the State. ARAMBERRI's banishment was subsequently revoked, but the pardon was rejected.

Letters received in New-Orleans from trustworthy sources in Mexico maintain a report that VIDAURRI had enrolled himself under the standard of the Church party, and hence his retirement from the Liberal camp.

It is very clear, it seems, indeed, to be expected by themselves, that the present Liberal campaign is to end as the last one did—a failure. A dreadful state of disorganization exists throughout the army, nor does there appear to be any one of sufficient prestige and personal influence to command obedience.

A correspondent of the Picayune writing from Tepic, Aug. 9, states that an American engineer named CHASE, was arrested in July upon a charge of abetting the Liberal cause. The writer proceeds: "On the 6th inst., orders were received from MARQUEZ to resume the examination, and if CHASE should be found guilty to cause him to be shot. Instead of doing so, however, the commandant of the place had him brought out, and the unfortunate man was summarily shot, after which his body was hung up within two leagues of this place, on the roadside. The murdered man leaves a widow and two children.

Later from Hayti.

THE CONSPIRACY AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT—INTERVIEW BETWEEN THE PRESIDENT AND CHIEF CONSPIRATOR—THE DENOUEMENT.

By the arrival at Boston of the brig Monticello, we have received Hayti files to Sept. 4.

The Moniteur Haitien gives the following official account of the discovery of the conspiracy against the present Government:

"The events of this week, which have just resulted so seriously, had a commencement that might have been expected to lead to such consequences. The President of Hayti, informed from its inception of this conspiracy, held the threads of it in his hand and did all that was possible to avert it.

At first a friend told him, some two months ago, that General PROPHETE would prove treacherous. The head of the state repelled this allegation, affirming to his informant that the General was his friend, and incapable of treason. The informant, not wishing to be considered a gratuitous denunciator, immediately set to work and obtained proofs of Gen. PROPHETE's guilt. Adroit schemes were planned, by which the informant placed himself on friendly relations with PROPHETE; the President was informed of everything, and retains a copy of the secret conversations. In his allocution to the officers of the guard, he exhibited this document and read part of it.

When the President was fully convinced of the facts of the case, he sent for General PROPHETE, and revealed to him that he was accused of treason. He denied it. The President then entered into the details of the charge, insisting that the name of PROPHETE was involved, according to his own friends. One of these interviews lasted from eight o'clock P. M., till midnight.

From every quarter the President continued to receive information, especially from the Artibonite and the North, where the conspiracy had its principal hold. He was not informed of the progress of the plan. Emissaries visited the two departments engaged in active propagandism for the conspirators. Several have been arrested, both here and at Cape Haytien.

At last the President, having received by the last post the most positive documents, convened his Cabinet, and with the Secretaries of State decided to take decisive measures against the conspirators and their principal leader. The President wished to use clemency to the end; he allowed the General PROPHETE to embark, and thus save his head from the decapitation it so justly merited.

It was full time to take active measures; this General was yet in an harbor, when his minions, deceived in their hopes, and seeing the imminent downfall of their abominable projects, thought to avenge themselves by an infamous assassination, the murder of an innocent child, a daughter of the President, who was quietly sitting in a room of the palace, reading near a table. No expression can qualify this murder. Evidently the assassins, enraged that they could not reach the President himself, had resolved to strike him through his dearest affections.

This unheard-of assassination is not without its significance. The assassin or assassins are but the instruments of others. But the innocence of the victims will plead against them before Heaven, and Providence will not be slow, for it is just, to divulge their infernal machinations."

Mr. John Fine, aged 96 years, was married recently, in Darrie County, N. C., to Miss Elizabeth Harley, aged 37. The couple walked eight miles to the residence of the officiating magistrate, to get the nuptial knot tied; and after dinner, having had a merry time with a large company who had assembled to witness the ceremony, returned home, making a walk of 16 miles for the day, without rod or ruffle. The bridegroom, it is said, was the most hilarious youth out of some forty or fifty present at the marriage, and fairly outdid the whole company by his jests and stories.

Prince Albert presided, on the 14th ult., at the commencement of the twenty-ninth anniversary of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. In a very modest speech, which elicited warm applause, the Prince spoke of his election to the Presidency of the association as "an act of humility on the part of its members, which, to reject, would have looked like false humility, that is, pride, on his part."

Mrs. W. Davidson, the woman lately arrested in Toronto for passing counterfeit American money, appears to be a persecuted individual. The charge against her has been dismissed, her money was proved to be genuine, and she now threatens to sue the city for $20,000 damages. A long communication appears in the Toronto Leader, in which Mrs. D. narrates her grievances, and abuses the brokers, who refused to take bills which were afterwards redeemed by the Banks which issued them.

Mr. James Richardson, of the Canadian Geological Survey, has returned to Portland from his trip to Parlin Pond. This region abounds in fossils in the decomposed rocks, and Mr. Richardson finds a belt of the same formation extending in a northeasterly direction, bearing the same fossils as those of Gaspe, and similar to those of Pembroke and the St. Croix region.

Bishop Bayley, (Roman Catholic,) of Newark, writes to the Newark Daily, to say that in his recent consecration of church-bells, he neither called a bell a "creature," nor did he "baptize" it, nor did he say that "Moses blessed the brazen serpent in the wilderness," for if he did, the Scripture makes no mention of it. A newspaper report, the Bishop avers, made him say very absurd things, these among them.

Ex-Gov. Seymour, of Conn., was entertained on Friday, Sept. 30, at a banquet tendered him by the Knights Templars of Hartford. In his speech in reference to a complimentary toast, he said he had found Masons in every land, ready to take him by the hand; and in every place he had observed the same great principles of benevolence and Christian virtues among them.

A vigorous effort is being made to prove the insanity of Captain Holmes, of Maine, now under sentence of death for the murder of one of his crew. Among the witnesses who testify to the unsound state of his mind, is Dr. L. V. Bell, late Superintendent of the McLean Asylum, who says that Capt. H. was once under his care in the Asylum at Augusta, Me.

Miss Magdalene Hardy, of Delaware County, N. Y., has just recovered $500 damages from Freeland Cochran, who had been "her friend from childhood," for a breach of marriage promise. The effence was aggravated from the fact that "he very often took breakfast at her father's house," and then married another girl.

The Members of the Executive Council of Massachusetts visited Troy on Saturday. They started to view the Hoosac Tunnel, but extended their trip to Troy, at the invitation of the Troy and Boston Railroad Company, and were entertained in a bountiful manner.

The Rev. Marshall Henshaw, principal of the Dummer Academy, Ryefield, Mass., has accepted the appointment of Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in Rutgers College, at New-Brunswick, and will enter upon his duties in the course of two or three weeks.

The Rev. G. W. Samson, D. D., of Washington, has been chosen President of the Columbia, (S. C.,) College. The Rev. J. Spencer Kennard, of New-Jersey, has been called to succeed him in the pastorate of the E-street Church in Washington.

The Hon. Sherrard Clemens, of Virginia, is now considered by his physician in a very critical situation. He was lately on a visit with his bride, in the County of Westmorland, but owing to the unfavorable condition of his wounded limb, he was under the necessity of returning to his home in Wheeling.

The Hon. Joshua R. Giddings, who is still in Vermont, was so unwell, last week, as to be compelled to forego an appointment to lecture in St. Albans. He has for some years past been subject to sudden attacks, which his physicians suppose to be atrophy of the heart.

Mr. Slade, of Alstead, N. H., the only surviving Revolutionary pensioner in Cheshire County, recently met with a fall by which his thigh bone was fractured and his life endangered. He is nearly a hundred years old.

Ex-President Fillmore and Mrs. Fillmore, visited both branches of the Massachusetts Legislature on Thursday. After remaining in each a short time, they payed a complimentary visit to His Excellency Gov. Banks.

The Rev. Elijah Robbins and wife sailed from Boston, Sept. 30, in the bark Gemsbok, for Africa. They go out under the direction of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and their place of destination is Zulu, in South Africa.

A Boston paper says: "The Rev. Warren Burton, who has done excellent service in Boston and vicinity in the cause of home education, is about to visit the principal places in New-England in advocacy of his favorite subject.

OBITUARY.

Maj. R. S. Neighbors, Superintendent of Indian Affairs in Texas, was murdered in the town of Belknap, in that State, Sept. 14, by an unknown man, who stepped towards him in the street and shot him, and then fled. Maj. Neighbors had gone to Belknap to examine into the cause of some troubles with the Indians, and it is supposed that private revenge for some fancied injury prompted the act of his murderer. Maj. N. was an estimable gentleman, a diligent officer, and will be greatly lamented in Texas, where his influence over the savages had produced the happiest results.

Mr. Wm. C. Barker, Surveyor of the Port of Providence, died in that city, Sept. 27. He was appointed Surveyor by President Pierce, and reappointed under the present Administration. Mr. Barker was Grand Commander of the Encampment of Knights Templar in Rhode Island, and Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons.

Gov. Henry Masters, of Dacotah Territory, died suddenly on his farm, in the vicinity of Sioux Falls, on Saturday, 10th September. Mr. Masters was somewhat advanced in years, and has been in quite feeble health for some time.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Horse-railroads in the cities seem to be productive of a great deal of trouble. In Philadelphia, the Sabbatarians will not permit the cars to run on Sunday, and in Cincinnati the permission granted to two different companies to lay three tracks in Fourth-street has roused the ire of all the property owners in that section. One of the companies worked all night, a few nights ago to lay down the third track according to its own ideas, but the opposition Company tore up the rails, and there was a lively time under the glare of torchlight. The property-owners now sue for an injunction upon all the parties. There is a prospect of the speedy introduction of street-railroads in the City of Cleveland; and there is also the usual preliminary fight among the rivals and in the Common Council.

A man named Charles Antone alias John Brown, confined in jail in Baltimore on the charge of attempting to kill Capt. Dawson, of the bark Sea Nymph, swallowed a small quantity of ethereal oil the other day, from the effects of which he died. He complained of a pain in the stomach, and thinking the ethereal oil would have a narcotic effect, asked one of his fellow-prisoners to hand him the lamp. He took but one swallow of the liquid, and about an hour and a half after was attacked with severe pain, and soon expired.

Letters of instruction to the Surveyor-General of Florida, relative to the survey of a portion of the southern everglades, are being prepared at the General Land Office. The deputy-surveyor, who contracted to survey the most southerly of the line of townships yet contracted for, having been driven back to Tampa by hostile Indians, after he had completed a portion of his work, has stated that in order to enable him to secure a second outfit, and make another effort to prosecute the work, he will require additional compensation and a larger contract.

A young man named John Nichols was, on Thursday, arrested in Baltimore, on the charge of attempting to take the life of his father. It appeared from the testimony that several days ago the accused made an attack on his father with an axe, but the latter escaped, and obtained a warrant for his arrest. Young Nichols kept out of the way of the police, and on Thursday visited the house of his father, and with a knife in his hand threatened to take his life. The officers were near at the time, and having been called arrested him.

A verdict of $20,000 damages has been rendered at Detroit in favor of Mrs. James B. Corey, in the suit of herself and husband against the City Corporation, as recompense for injuries received by falling into an open sewer. The case was tried in the Circuit Court, and it appears from the testimony that the lady's limbs were paralyzed in consequence of the injury received. The jury held the City Government responsible to the full amount of damages claimed, for having neglected to place the necessary safeguards around the sewer while in process of construction.

Workmen are still engaged, says the Baltimore American, in making alterations and improvements upon the steamer of the Messrs. Winans, and the official states that she will make a trip to Norfolk some time during next week. A number of trials have already been made, more for the purpose of testing the machinery than for determining the speed of the boat, but on the coming occasion it will be seen how fast she can be propelled through her destined element.

A lady at Salem, Ohio, has recovered a verdict of $600 against the Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad Company, as damages for having been ejected from the cars. Getting on board the train at Crestline, she offered the conductor a ragged $1 bill in payment of fare, but he refused to take it. Having no other money, she was put off the train in a rain-storm, half a mile from the station. The bill was proved to be good, and the Jury rendered a verdict in favor of plaintiff.

A Princeton letter to the Newark Daily Advertiser, says: "Our college had about 80 accessions, making her number about 300, which doubtless will be augmented next session. The seminary received about 45, retaining in the aggregate the same number, 160. The Northwest Seminary did not, as was supposed, draw away many of our Western brethren, and though the new seminary may be good and promising, they all seem to think old Princeton is better.

The yellow fever has appeared at Houstion, Texas. The Telegraph, Sept. 23, says: "There are to-day, as far as we can hear, eight cases of yellow fever under treatment in town, of which four or five have been taken since our report on Wednesday, and the balance are convalescing. There have been in all five deaths reported by the city sexton, of this disease. It does not as yet appear to be spreading.

It is stated that the Secretary of the Navy has recently made arrangements for the reception of an additional number of acting midshipmen at the Naval Academy—from thirty to forty. Members or Congress from the districts which have been the longest time without appointments, as far back as 1855, will be requested to make nomination of youths for admission in accordance with the existing laws.

Mayor Weaver, of Pittsburgh, has positively prohibited the running of cars upon the city railroads on Sunday. An extended correspondence has taken place between the Mayor, the citizens and the companies, and the result is that the Sunday travel is forbidden.

The Vermont State Journal says: "Every month has been marked by frost, and a drought, severer than any known for many years, prevailed through the Summer. But under the influence of the rains of last week the grass has started vigorously, and strawberries are blooming the second time this season.

The man, Wm. Fulton, who recently killed his child in Detroit, while firing a gun at his wife, has been found guilty of murder in the second degree. The Jury recommended him to mercy.

The Mayor of Rochester has officially prohibited any further exhibitions of rope-walking at the Falls of the Genesee. DE LAVE will be compelled to beat up new quarters.

The City of Detroit is about to erect a new City Hall at a cost of $250,000, and a Workhouse at a cost of $50,000.

The corner-stone of a House of Refuge near Toronto, was laid last week, in presence of a number of civic functionaries.

LAW REPORTS.

CASE OF ROBERT MACDONALD.

Opening of the Oyer and Terminer—The Murder of Virginia Stewart—The Trial of Macdonald Postponed.

The Oyer and Terminer was opened yesterday morning. There being not a sufficient number of the panel of the Grand Jury present when called, those who were present were discharged for a fortnight, when an additional panel will be called.

The People vs. Robert Macdonald.—The prisoner is indicted, it will be remembered, for the murder of Virginia Stewart, whose unhappy end caused so much sensation a few months since. The prisoner was in Court with his counsel, James T. Brady, with whom is associated Ex-Judge GRANDIN. The District-Attorney asked that the Court, on granting an application which the defendant's counsel made for a commission to examine witnesses out of the State, should fix a limit to the time for which such proceeding should be allowed to stay the proceedings of the prosecution, and that provision should also be made for allowing counsel for the State to cross-examine only the witnesses whose testimony should be thus taken. Mr. Justice ROOSEVELT allowed the commission, the terms of the order to be settled on Thursday at Chambers, and proceedings to be stayed till the first Monday of December.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before the Hon. Recorder Barnard—Opening of the October Term—Cases of Highway Robbery, Burglary, &c.

The October Term of the Court of General Sessions commenced yesterday, before Recorder BARNARD. Only eleven of the Grand Jurors impanneled being present, there was no quorum, and the ceremony of swearing in, with the Recorder's charge, was postponed till this morning.

The principal case before the Court was that of James McDermott and Wm. Hagan, charged with highway robbery. On the 18th September, at the hour of 3 in the afternoon, two young men, named Almon P. McConney and George W. Chamberlain, were accosted by a female in Lispenard-street. They stopped to speak to her, and were immediately attacked and knocked down by McDermott and Hagan. On McConney rising to his feet, he missed his watch, but the assailants were already out of sight. They were subsequently arrested and fully identified. Yesterday, Hagan pleaded guilty to an assault on Chamberlain, but denied any complicity in the robbery. He was sentenced to nine months in the Penitentiary, and fined $100, to stand committed till the fine is paid. Hagan was twenty-eight years old, and McDermott only nineteen.

Thomas Wilson, aged eighteen, was tried on a charge of burglary in the third degree. On Sept. 6, the storehouse of Messrs. Isaac Brett, David H. Cornwell, and Noyes B. Allen, at No. 254 Fulton-street, was forcibly entered, and some sheepskins stolen therefrom. Subsequently, four skins were found in Wilson's possession, under circumstances that left no doubt that he was one of the guilty parties. The Jury convicted him, with a recommendation to mercy. Sentenced to two years in the Penitentiary.

Mary McCarthy and Homer Scanlan were tried on a charge of larceny of money, in stealing, as was alleged, on the 13th April, the sum of $135 from John Driscole, at No. 49 Mulberry-street. The evidence was quite insufficient to prove any felonious intention, and they were instantly acquited.

A notorious woman, known as "Widow Forrester," was convicted last June, before the Recorder, for keeping a disorderly house, called the "Red, White and Blue" in Canal-street, near Laight. Her counsel appealed to the Supreme Court against the Recorder's ruling, but that Court sustained the Recorder, and the counsel was ruled out. "Yesterday "Widow Forrester" was brought up for sentence. The Recorder told her that she had not even done what she had promised to do, break up her vile establishment, and notwithstanding all her remonstrances, sentenced her to nine months imprisonment in the Penitentiary, with a fine of $200, and to stand committed till the fine was paid.

A youth, named Lyons, pleaded guilty to a charge of false pretences, and was sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

Lowber and Dr. Nott in Court.

Duncan, Sherman & Co. vs. Eliphalet Nott and Robert W. Lowber.—This cause came up for trial yesterday in the Supreme Court Circuit, before Mr. Justice POTTER. It was brought by the well-known bankers of this City against Dr. Nott as drawer, and Robert W. Lowber as acceptor of a draft for $5,000. The complaint alleged that the defendant Nott drew the draft to his own order in August, 1857, on the defendant Lowber, who accepted it and delivered it to the plaintiff for value, and that the draft, although overdue, was still unpaid. Dr. Nott made no defence. Lowber's defence was that since the commencement of the action he had entered into an agreement with the plaintiffs by which it was agreed that the action was to be discontinued against him and his liability on the acceptance released upon his transferring to the plaintiffs certain real property in Brooklyn; that he had done so, and the plaintiffs were now in possession of the property and its incomes, having accepted the transfer. To this the plaintiffs reply that they took the property in question subject to a mortgage represented to be in the amount of $9,000; that they subsequently to the transfer learned that the incumbrance was much greater, and they accordingly refused to accept that settlement. It was held by the Court that the plaintiffs were not precluded by the settlement from repudiating the transfer upon such a ground, and directed the evidence in the case to be proceeded with. It is still on.

Laroque & Barlow for plaintiffs; Noves & Barbour for defendant.

The Spiritual Rape Case in a New Phase.

Samuel G. Worrell vs. Nelson J. Hume.—It will be remembered that some months ago the parties to this action were before Justice Quackenbush for the purpose of examination into a charge of rape made against the defendant by the wife of the plaintiff—she alleging that the act was committed while she was in a "trance," superinduced by the "spirits." That charge was dismissed. The plaintiff has since brought this action in the Supreme Court against the defendant to recover $10,000 damages for the seduction of his wife. The defendant to-day brought on his mother before Mr. Justice SUTHERLAND, at Chambers, for an order requiring the plaintiff to give security for costs, he being a non-resident. Postponed until to-day (Tuesday.)

Recovery of Money Paid for a Forged Note.

Ferdinand H. Boek and Hugo Ackerman vs. Samuel G. Phelps and Abraham Halsey.—This was an action in the Common Pleas to recover of the defendants the sum of $327 47, alleged to have been obtained by them of the plaintiffs on a forged note of William Boggs & Co., of No. 249 Washington-street. It appeared that the plaintiffs purchased a note purporting to be made by Boggs & Co., for $387, believing it to be a genuine note; but as Boggs & Co. subsequently alleged that the note was never made by them, and was a forgery, they brought this suit against the parties from whom they took the note to recover its amount. The answer denied all information and belief that the note was a forgery, and denied positively that the defendants sold the note to the plaintiffs.

The cause came on for trial before Mr. Justice DALY. The evidence showed that the defendants gave the note to one Livingston, a broker, to sell, and he sold it for them to the plaintiffs. The Court rendered judgment for the plaintiffs, with interest.

H. C. Van Vorst for plaintiffs; Van Antwerp & James for defendants.

Decisions.

CHAMBERS.—BEFORE INGRAHAM, J.

Thomas E. Smith vs. W. C. Dusenberry.—Motion to open judgment denied.

Loftus Wood vs. Edward Kimball.—Motion granted, but the proceedings stayed to allow the defendant to renew his application for a stay until decision of the appeal, such stay to be for ten days. Costs to abide the event.

Gilbert G. Everson vs. Heron Wing, and others.—Motion granted.

John H. Mortimer vs. William Brunner, and others.—Case settled.

Alexander McGovin, and others, vs. William Robertson.—Motion granted on payment of costs.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.—BEFORE SUTHERLAND, J.

Cossard vs. The Manhattan Gas Company.—The complaint in this case must be discharged, for the reasons stated at Special Term on the argument. To hold that the plaintiff could maintain this action on the pleading and proofs therein, would be in effect to hold that the defendants were obliged to part with their property without pay.

SUPERIOR COURT.—SPECIAL TERM.—BEFORE PIERREPONT, J.

Edward Hustons vs. Adams Express Company.—This case is to be returned to counsel, as it is neither paged nor folied.

BEFORE HOFFMAN, J.

Henry Noson vs. Addison Martin and others.—Petition to remove the cause into the Circuit Court of the United States. Motion granted.

TO THE LADIES.—FORMAN, NO. 705 BROADway, takes this method to inform the ladies that his stock of skirts, corsets and embroideries are now complete. His manufacture of skirts is allowed to surpass any in the City, in point of shape or fit, all manufactured for the custom trade, and no pains spared to make them satisfy all who may purchase. This established depôt for skirts of all kinds needs no recommendation, being so favorably known throughout the United States, from which they are sent by express to all parts of the Union. He also made the first hooped skirt from watch-spring steel ever made in this country. Orders taken, and fits warranted; corsets 90 cents a pair, French patterns. NEWS OF THE DAY.

The Teutonia from Southampton, on the 17th, furnishes no later European advices. From the London journals of the 17th there are various extracts of interest.

The intelligence now received from Venezuela is not of an encouraging character. While the Government forces are successful in defeating the insurgents in every encounter, the insurrection erects its head at some other and distant point; and so fiercely is the war waged, that all the ordinary sanctities of civilized life are disregarded. The French Chargé had left the country, dismissed for abetting the party of disorder. Trade remained at a stand still. The foreign Consuls and residents were eagerly awaiting the protection of their several Governments.

An arrival at Boston brings official details of the discovery of the recent conspiracy against the Haytian Government. The accounts already received are fully confirmed.

Advices from Northern Mexico indicate the thorough disorganization of the Liberal forces. Gen. Vidaurri is said to have gone over to the Church Party.

The result of the California State election is announced by the Overland mail. Milton S. Latham, the Lecompton Democratic candidate for Governor, has a majority which may reach 20,000. The Democratic State ticket is also elected. Messrs. Baker and McKibben, the candidates for Congress of the united Opposition, have a slight chance of success. In San Francisco the People's ticket, which was made up of the names of prominent friends of the Vigilance Committee, has triumphed by a handsome majority.

Telegrams from Ottawa, C. W., bring the gratifying intelligence of the safety of the adventurous aeronauts, La Mountain and Haddock. A dispatch signed by La Mountain, states with graphic conciseness that they have lost all. The balloon, after having been in the air four or five hours, landed 300 miles north of Watertown in the Canada wilderness. For four days the adventurers were without food or fire. Finally they were rescued by Mr. Cameron, who was hauling timber in company with some Indian guides.

The Postmaster-General has decided that the foreign mails for Aspinwall, Panama, Central America, &c., are to be sent by the Vanderbilt steamship Northern Light, which leaves here to-morrow, from the foot of Warren-street. The matter of the California mails is still undecided.

The Vigilance Committee troubles in Louisiana do not appear to be entirely suppressed, though the prominent leaders of the organization have given assurances to Gov. Wickliffe that no further violence would be attempted. Much excitement still exists. The Governor visited the scene of lawlessness in person, and had interviews with those who have been most prominent in the disturbances.

The Board of Aldermen, last evening, adopted the report of the Committee which expended $6,851 86 in the reception of the Richmond authorities and military; passed the resolution in favor of allowing the Eighth-avenue Railroad Company to lay a third track in Canal-street, near Broadway, in spite of the objections of the Mayor; resolved to meet every Monday and Thursday, at 5 P. M., during the present month, and, after the transaction of some routine business, adjourned. In the Board of Councilmen a veto message was received from Mayor Tiemann relating to the late action of the Common Council in the annulling of the Peck-slip and Grand-street ferry leases. Resolutions were adopted proposing the appointment of Steam-boiler Inspectors, to guard against explosions; also, contemplating the purchase of the Five Points property for the purpose of erecting suitable buildings thereon for the uses of the City.

The Fall Term of the Court of Oyer and Terminer commenced yesterday before Judge Roosevelt, when R. S. Macdonald, who shot Virginia Stewart at the corner of Broadway and the Brandreth House, was placed on trial, whereupon his counsel, Mr. James T. Brady, applied for the issue of a commission to Mobile, San Francisco, and other cities of the Union, for the examination of witnesses, whose testimony was material to Macdonald's defence. The Court granted the application, and postponed further proceedings in the trial till the first Monday in December. The October term of the Court of General Sessions commenced with a heavy calendar—Recorder Barnard presiding. As usual, on the first day of term, there were not a sufficient number of grand jurors present to form a quorum. The case of audacious highway robbery in Lispenard-street, on the 18th of September, in broad daylight, was disposed of by the principal offender pleading guilty, and being sent for five years to the State Prison. Several cases of minor interest came before the Court. It is reported that Macalpine will be returned from the State Prison on Friday, and tried on a second indictment for robbing Miss Woodbine, the governess.

After their skirmishing in Canada, the All-England Eleven have commenced the match which is conceded to be the most important of the series which they are to play in this country. Yesterday morning, shortly before noon, they met the Twenty-two of the United States, on the St. George's Cricket Ground, at Hoboken. At that time there were between four and six thousand spectators in attendance. The Eleven won the toss for innings, but sent in the Twenty-two first. They gave way to the Eleven in two hours, having scored but thirty-eight. At 5 o'clock the stumps were drawn, eighty-two runs having been made by the All-England Eleven, and two wickets only having gone down. The play will continue to-day.

The burning of the Lion Brewery, in this City, on Sunday night, proves to have involved a much more serious loss of property than was at first supposed. There was $40,000 worth of grain destroyed, and the entire loss is estimated at $278,000; on which there is an insurance of $135,000 in various Insurance offices in this City. The brewery was owned by Messrs. Albert Speyers & Co. Mr. Speyers promises to commence the erection of another brewery as soon as possible.

The Americans in Kings County held a Convention last evening and placed in nomination a full county ticket. E. T. Wood received the nomination for the office of District-Attorney, and Winchester Britton was placed in nomination for the office of County Judge. The Independent, or "Morris" Democrats, in the same county, also held a Convention yesterday, and placed Samuel D. Morris in nomination for County Judge. With the exception of three minor offices the balance of the regular Democratic County ticket was adopted. The Brooklyn Common Council held a regular meeting last evening, when two applications were received for permission to lay tracks and run horse cars thereon. One route is through Gates and Fulton avenues to Fulton Ferry, and the other through Grand-street, in the Eastern District, to Newtown in Queens County. The applications were referred to the Railroad Committee.

No important changes occurred, yesterday, in the Money Market. The Bank Statement, indicating a general falling off in the Weekly Averages, produced no noticable effect. Dullness in the Exchange business was generally complained of. Rates were unaltered. The stock market opened steady, with free transactions in Shares. Toward the close, however, there was less activity, with diminished firmness. The loss of Specie reported by the Banks exercised a depressing influence on the dealings.

Flour was freely offered and purchased, at, however, irregular prices. Wheat was very quiet and depressed. Corn was scarce and in demand at firmer rates. A moderate inquiry prevailed for Cotton, Coffee, Molasses and Sugars. Provisions were less sought after. Pork and Beef were cheaper. Rice was in fair request. Metals, Naval Stores and Oils, were essentially unaltered. Whisky was more extensively dealt in. The freight engagements were heavier.

The Mayoralty Election.

The canvass for Mayor, although the election is still two months off, excites a keener interest than the State contest, which occurs in November. No one cares a pin for the State election, except as it may affect the Presidential canvass. Both Democrats and Republicans would be glad to go into National Convention, with the prestige of victory in New-York, as such a triumph would greatly increase the weight of this State in the nomination of a candidate. If the Republicans carry it triumphantly, they may reasonably claim the result as indicative of the strength of Mr. Seward, and press him upon the Convention as certain to carry the State. If the Democrats succeed, their delegation could take a much higher tone at Charleston, and possibly dictate terms to the Southern States. If the Utica mongrel ticket should be elected, it would lower the tone of both the political parties, and probably lead to new alliances and coalitions. But it is only by considerations of this sort that even politicians can be induced to take any special interest in the State election.

For the Mayoralty, however, there is a sharper contest. Ex-Mayor Wood has made up his mind to be elected. He thinks he was out-cheated two years ago, and nothing is more galling to a sharp practitioner, in any kind of gambling, than to be beaten at his own game. Besides, he lost political position then, which he is very anxious to regain, partly as a matter of personal vanity and partly to aid ulterior projects of political ambition. At all events he is resolved to run; he will get a nomination from his own faction of the Democratic Party, and will do everything in his power to be elected. Judging from its conduct, Tammany Hall underrates his strength. The little clique which runs that machine seems to regard the field as clearly its own, and is only puzzled how to adjust the conflicting claims of two or three of its members to the nomination. It has been generally supposed to have been mortgaged long ago to Postmaster Fowler, but an attempt to foreclose revealed one or two other claimants, as well as considerable clashing of pretensions to other offices. The nomination is talked of now as being between Mr. Fowler and Mr. W. D. Kennedy, both respectable gentlemen, both mainly known as partisan politicians, and neither commanding any great degree of strength beyond their party lines. A large number of old-fashioned Democrats, who have hitherto contented themselves with paying their money, voting the regular ticket, and letting the "boys" manage the machinery, have begun to distrust the practical working of their City government, and are talking about nominating some man of a higher stamp—like Royal Phelps, A. V. Stout, or gentlemen of similar character. But as they have no control over what is styled the Organization, they are not likely to accomplish anything—and Tammany Hall will put up one of her ordinary party candidates and trust chance for the issue.

Under such a state of things the Republicans, if they are prudent, can achieve a victory. If they nominate a first-rate candidate—who will command general confidence by his character, and general respect by his ability—they can elect him. Wood will weaken the Democratic Party very greatly at one end, and the respectable Democrats will leave it at the other, if they see any candidate strong enough to command their confidence. A great many of them are of opinion that the Democrats have had the City long enough—that they have become utterly corrupt and degraded, and that two years of Republican rule in the City will teach them a wholesome lesson and do them good. They may learn in that way the folly of surrendering the party to ruffians and rowdies, and be inclined after a while to admit respectable Democrats to a fair share of influence in its affairs.

England and the Italian Question.

The recent correspondence of Lord John Russell, at London, with M. de Rechberg, at Vienna, has hardly received all the attention which it deserves on this side of the water. The revival in the East of that Anglo-French alliance, which had suffered so much and such serious detriment in the West, gives a particular importance to all diplomatic movements which indicate a disposition on the part of the actual English Government to adopt the Napoleonic notions of the Italian question, and to support, at least with the eloquence of protocols and protests, that liberal policy which France found herself compelled to maintain alone in arms at the risk of evolving the ghosts of 1815 from their bloody graves. If England and France are to fight together in the name of civilization against China, it is clear that France goes into the renewed war as the protecting ally of Great Britain; for the main body of the forces recently defeated at the Pei-ho was made up of English troops and English sailors; the only vessels sunk in the engagement with the Mantchoo fortresses were also English vessels; and the unlucky Admiral whose blundering obedience to the intolerant orders of an English Envoy brought on the disastrous conflict, bore her Britannic Majesty's commission and sailed under the flag of St. George. France too, must supply the new expeditionary force with the strength of its land troops, and as the future struggle must be carried on along the inland banks of a great river, the lion's share of hot and genuine war will probably fall to the French. All these circumstances will dispose the English authorities to conciliate the French Government in all ways compatible with the national honor. And we may, therefore, rely upon it that whatever indications of a tendency to fortify the French Emperor's ideas in Italy may already have been given in England, are little likely to be falsified by the future development of affairs.

The Russell-Rechberg correspondence, therefore, like the Imperial article in the Moniteur, of Paris, upon which so many comments have just been made, is really an "event" in the current history of the political world. It is the overt declaration of Great Britain in favor of the Italian nationalities, and commits the present English Government, if need be, to the most decided possible intervention in behalf of the doctrine of non-intervention; while the French Emperor, with an ill-humor which he hardly succeeds in concealing, proclaims the unsatisfactory result of his famous Peace of Villafranca by a protest from St. Sauveur against the obstinacy of the Central Italians who will insist on being saved according to their own ideas of what is best for themselves, and so have already spoiled the programme prepared for them by the victor of Solferino. Lord John Russell, no doubt enchanted at the opportunity of reclaiming traditional place as the defender of liberalism, scouts all consideration of any enduring basis of national right but the will of the people, and asks the Austrian Government, with distressing earnestness, to remember that the Metternich theory of public law is thoroughly exploded, and that the nations of Europe are henceforth to rule themselves according to their own necessities and convictions.

Lord John Russell's dispatch to the Austrian Minister recapitulates, indeed with the prolixity to be expected from the editor of Tom Moore's Diary and Correspondence, but also with the historical fidelity and political good sense to be expected from a sincerely liberal English statesman, all the great principles summed up by Napoleon III. in his famous address from Milan to the Italian people. The forms are changed; the phrases vary; but the Court of Vienna hears now from its honied ally, in the Capital of Britain, precisely the same sharp and bitter truths which it heard four months ago from its armed and advancing enemy in the Capital of Lombardy. Lord John Russell touches the tender question of Venice lightly enough, but his principles touch it far more sternly. The English Secretary flatly declares what we believe to be the unquestionable truth, that England will have nothing to do with dynastic dreams or hereditary rights; and that she demands for the people of Italy absolute non-intervention by Foreign Powers in their domestic affairs, and the absolute right to decide for themselves what their Government shall be, and who shall administer it. Had the Tory predecessors of Lord John Russell held this language when the Italian question rose first, red and angry upon the political horizon, less than a year ago, the European action of England might have been worthy her traditional name and her avowed principles. That the Tory predecessors of Lord John Russell held a very different language, and justified their words by their works, we need hardly remind our readers now. The English Government, the English Press, and the English people threw the burden and heat of the day in Italy upon France. They left the Emperor Napoleon to assume the dread responsibility of compelling Austria to admit those grand ideas which Lord John Russell in their name now urges so elaborately upon her attention. In the graphic language of our own popular slang, England chose to be "counted out" when the fierce debate came on in January last between legitimacy with the Hapsburgs and liberty with the people of Italy. If an astute English minister, whom we believe to be honestly liberal as well as astute, is now endeavoring to put England right on this great question of the age, it is not probable that the Italian people will forget who did the work when the work was to be done, even while they accept the sympathy which may save them at this critical stage of their history from grave and new and serious complications. Nor can the French Government hesitate to welcome the diplomatic coöperation of England in October, because that coöperation might have been so much more valuable in January. The Italian war has been fought. Thousands of lives have been sacrificed and millions of treasure. Austria has been humbled. Italy elevated to the disposal of her own destinies. If now England will lend her aid to France in consolidating the great result, which that aid if earlier given might have made more cheaply attainable, France and Italy, with the world at large, will infinitely be the gainers. That the Austrian Government felt all the importance of this English demonstration is sufficiently proved by the feeble, angry tone of Count Rechberg's reply to Lord John Russell's communication. The stereotyped rigmarole of Continental diplomats driven to the wall is repeated throughout this document. Count Rechberg rings the familiar old changes on the familiar old themes, India, Ireland, the Ionian Isles; pooh-poohs notabilities, and pleads for "intervention in certain cases," as a duty of the defenders of legitimacy. All this, however, will not in one iota affect the value of the paramount fact that if England will now work heartily with France for the assertion of complete Italian independence, the Conference of Zurich may come to an end as soon as the plenipotentiaries may please, for the future of Italy will be secured beyond risk or peradventure, from all but Italian hands.

An Apology which Makes the Matter Worse.—The New-Orleans correspondent of the Charleston Courier makes the following remarks concerning the recent shooting of Dr. Graham:

"The Press here have commented severely on the fact that so many public officers—the Street Commissioner, an Alderman, and other conservatives of the public peace (among them a policeman, with whom Dr. Graham talked and drank the evening of his death; showed him his pistol; spoke of his determination to kill Toledano at sight), should have known that, crazed with liquor (and then known to be most dangerous), this unfortunate man had gone about the streets for two or three days, openly avowing his determination to kill a well-known citizen at sight; and that he should not have been arrested, or got out of the way, until his fury was over. This is certainly a neglect of duty; but it must be remembered that if any leading public officer had had Graham arrested for carrying a concealed weapon, he would have drawn on himself, at some future day, the formidable ire of the man; furthermore, the Police knew that their own chief was related to the deceased, who had besides many and influential friends belonging to and leaders in the party that holds the city government and that appoints these very policemen."

What is the use of pretending to have a government at all, if the character here given of it is correctly drawn? Personal fear, private relationship, party influence and personal friendships, all combine to disarm the law and permit a drunken madman to hunt a citizen day after day, through the streets, as he would hunt a wild beast! We may as well go back to the age of barbarism at once.

Views of the Vice-President on the Douglas Question.—The Kentucky Statesman contains a communication which the Constitution says is attributed to Vice-President Breckinridge, upon the question of Slavery in the Territories. It is a review of the Magazine article of the Illinois Senator, and the ground which it takes is thus summed up:

"We hold, therefore, that neither Congress nor the Territorial Government can legally interfere with Slavery; that its recognition by the Federal Constitution secures its existence until the people of the Territory, in forming their State constitution, shall decide finally upon it; that its protection is a question for the Judiciary, and the authority of the Judiciary shall be protected and maintained, whenever the necessity shall occur, by the whole power of the Federal Government—legislative and executive, as well as judicial. And since Slavery is so recognized by the Constitution, there is needed no express legislation by Congress for its protection, but all further agitation upon the subject is calculated only to engender sectional feeling, and weaken the cohesive power which holds us together as a confederate Republic."

This differs but little from the position of Judge Douglas. It denies the right of the Territorial Government to "interfere with Slavery,"—but it says nothing of its right to refuse protection to it or to legislate upon the subject indirectly. It does not even deny the necessity, or desirability, of Territorial legislation for the protection of Slave property,—though it implies that such legislation is not necessary when it speaks of the question as one wholly for the Judiciary.

This whole question, however, is rapidly passing out of the field of practical politics. The distinctions made upon the point are becoming too narrow and refined for popular interest, especially as no occasion is likely to arise speedily for the application of any of these diverse theories.

Extending Beekman-Street.

The Courier and Enquirer tenders its thanks in a gold snuff-box to Comptroller Haws for having "nobly interposed" to stop the extension of Beekman-street across the Park. As the Courier is very apt upon any subject to take the side which suits its whim, or fancied interest, for the moment, we are not in the least surprised at its taking ground now precisely opposite to that which it has held hitherto upon the principle involved in the Comptroller's action. Mr. Haws has a perfect right to his own opinions as to the propriety of extending Beekman-street across the Park; and so long as he acts within the limits of his duty, he is quite right in giving effect to those opinions. But the law clothes him with no power whatever on this subject. He is required to be present at the opening of bids for contracts under the City Government. It is purely an Executive act, and is designed to guard against frauds in opening or awarding those contracts. Yet he refuses to be present in this instance, because he disapproves of the work to be let! Why may he not in the same way stop every work on the Island which does not meet his approbation? Why may not every other executive officer imitate his example, and make his own will and wish supreme over City legislation? Our Democratic State Senators once refused to "be present" as required by law,—in order to prevent the enactment of a law which they disliked. The Courier denounced their conduct with great vigor and still greater justice, as factious and subversive of all legislation; yet it was much less flagrant than this action of Comptroller Haws, because he is not clothed with a particle of legislative responsibility in the matter, but refuses to perform a plainly enjoined and simple Executive duty.

This is the only point in the case we have cared hitherto to discuss. The question as thus presented has nothing whatever to do with the merit or demerit of the work itself. But this also is argued by the Courier in a style peculiar to itself—thus:

"The proposed extension of Beekman-street, through the Park, meets with much disfavor from many old citizens, who would look upon the project, if carried out, as a mutilation and desecration of that piece of public domain. That it would somewhat convenience carmen and others, none deny; yet the passage of this measure through the Common Council was never prompted by a desire to serve the public, but to enhance the value of real estate of a few individuals."

"Carmen and others," the Courier should understand, constitute rather an extensive class of people—a class entitled, possibly, to quite as much consideration as the "many old citizens" whose feelings and sympathies weigh so seriously in the civic scale. "Carmen and others" mean simply the business world—the men who convey goods about from point to point, and the merchants who employ them; and these two classes, we venture with all humility to assert, have something to do with the arrangement of the streets and places in New-York. If it be of no importance to convenience them, we must be in the blackest ignorance as to the causes of the present growth of the City and of its wonderful prosperity.

Many "old citizens" have never been able to see the necessity for the steady movement and increase of business in the Metropolis. They have always regarded it as specially unkind that they could not keep their houses and trees and little lawns in the ower part of the City, as in the olden time, instead of being required, every few years, to move on and make way for the "carmen and others" who were pressing so remorselessly on their rear. If no improvements were ever made in the City until all old citizens were agreed that they were neccssary and proper, we should see New-York to-day very much in the condition in which it was left by the last Dutch Governor of unpronouncable name and blessed memory. The condition of the City, and the conveniences it presents for business are, besides, not of half so much importance to our "old citizens" as our young ones, with all due reverence be it spoken. Any man who has made his fortune and "feathered his nest" with the park in his way, is, of course, apt to imagine that the next generation will find it no more of an obstruction than he did. But he is wofully mistaken. Distances are every day increasing in New-York; the business men are extending themselves every month over a wider area, and time is growing every day more valuable, and competition more intense. Five minutes are now worth as much as a day was fifty years ago. To get rapidly from one place to another with their goods, is something of the last importance to merchants; no body feels it to be so, so much as the young merchants; and as they are, in all human probability, to be longer on the tramp both in the Park and Beekman-street, than any of the Courier's elderly friends, it is but common justice to pay more attention to their wishes than to those of patriarchs who have already earned the right to sit over the Times at high noon, up town.

All this our down-town neighbor virtually concedes when he admits that the improvement would be a great convenience to "carmen and others." But he sweeps away the entire force of that argument by the statement that "the passage of this measure through the Common Council was never prompted by a desire to serve the public, but to enhance the value of the real estate of a few individuals." Is it possible! In that case, of course, it must at once be buried in oblivion. Unless our glorious Common Council was animated by the highest and noblest motives in passing the resolution, we must reject the scheme with scorn. No measure, whatever its merits, however unanswerable the arguments in its favor on grounds of public policy, or abstract justice, is to be entertained by us for a moment, until we have sounded the hearts of our Murrays and our Booles and ascertained to a dead certainty that they voted for it in a spirit of Christian patriotism, after prayerful consideration, and with the purest public motives. As to the extension increasing the value of real estate in the vicinity, it will probably have that effect. So far from being an objection, this is an argument in its favor. Everything that affords increased facilities for transacting business and making money, increases the value of real estate in its neighborhood. The building of the City of New-York on Manhattan Island has, we believe, increased the value of real estate in the neighborhood, and the construction of every pier along the shore raises the value of land close by. But would any sane man denounce pier building for that reason? Everything that promotes the growth of commerce, raises the value of every species of property used in the production or exchange of goods, but to use this as an argument against street-making and store-building is an outrage on common sense. The fact that it benefits property is a new reason for opposing a public improvement.

A Despotism in Earnest.

Lord Derby, the ex-Premier, is about, if report speaks truly, to exercise his "rights of property" in a manner for which, we venture to say, no parallel is to be found in the history of tenures since the days of Glanvil and Littleton; and if he carry out his purpose he will practically assume a power such as has been vested in no subject in Europe for more than a century and a half. A murder has been committed upon his estates at Dover in the west of Ireland, the impelling motive being probably, as in so many of these cases in Ireland, some real or alleged land grievance. The population in the neighborhood, as is also too often the case, sympathize with the criminal and not with the law; and though the former must be known to hundreds of them, they have thus far failed to give any information that would lead to his detection.

This, as we all know, is unhappily no new thing in Ireland. The law has there been so long really and truly the enemy of the people, that they refuse to trust it even when it acts honestly in their interest. It so long hunted men down as criminals who were guilty of no wrong, that the perceptions of the masses became blunted, and they at last ceased to draw any distinction between offences, and to extend the honors and succor due to martyrs to everybody, no matter of what he might be accused, who had made himself obnoxious to the authorities. This feeling of hostility to the law might possibly have died after the removal of religious disabilities, and the admission of all creeds to equal rights, if the state of the land tenures had not kept alive the memory of the conquest, by the preservation of a line of demarcation between the victors and vanquished as strong as ever was drawn by the penal laws. As long as the possession of a piece of land was necessary to enable a peasant to live, and the landlord was left the power of depriving him of it arbitrarily, and the law stepped in to enforce his behests, the peasant and the law could never be friends. He fought against it, or else befriended those who fought against it for him. When the courts ordered his expulsion from his home, he appealed to his blunderbuss. When his neighbors did the same, he sheltered and assisted them. The conflict has lasted to this day, and it will last until Parliament recognizes and enforces some interest, let it be ever so small, on the part of the tenant, to the house which shelters his family, and the farm on which he has expended his strength for years.

Lord Derby, however, thinks he has found a shorter road than this to the suppression of "agrarian outrage," and failing the discovery of the Doon murderer, has actually given orders for the eviction of all the tenants on the estate. Acting upon the presumption that they can all, if they please, give such information as would lead to his detection, he has determined to take upon himself the task of punishing them as accessories after the fact, by depriving them of house and home, and driving them out on the world.

Now, we have no hesitation in saying that a state of law and a state of society, in which one man can thus deal out on hundreds the most terrible punishment, without trial, without proof, without judge or jury, is not simply in this age of the world an anomaly, but a monstrosity. It is the administration of martial law, not by a Government or an official restrained by official responsibilities, but by a private individual, to his fellow-citizens in a time of profound peace. The law which made corruption of blood the legal concomitant of attainder, and visited upon an innocent family the consequences of a crime of which its head had been legally and solemnly convicted, has never found a place in our code, and in England has long been regarded as the barbarous relic of an inhuman and barbarous age; but, as compared with Lord Derby's dealings with his tenantry, it was mercy and humanity itself. There was little show of reason in aggravating the sufferings of a convicted traitor by consigning his wife and children to poverty; but Lord Derby visits the same fate upon dozens of families, for the simple reason that they probably live near somebody who has connived at a felony, or sheltered the felon. The only thing we can at all compare it to, for audacious defiance of justice, is the decimation of a regiment for mutiny; but it wants the only circumstances which make this military punishment defensible—the certainty that all have been guilty—the necessity for striking terror into the survivors, and the legal authority to strike it.

There have been acrimonious discussions enough in England, upon this subject of Irish wholesale evictions, to leave it in little need of ventilation. Those who defend the landlord's cause have always relied mainly upon the inalienable right of every man to make what disposition or arrangement of his own property he pleases. But this doctrine has of late years received a blow from one of the ablest and most influential thinkers in England, John Stuart Mill, who formally denies "that private property in land can be justified except in so far as the proprietor of the land is its improver," and asserts "that in no sound theory of private property was it ever contemplated that the proprietor of land should be merely a sinecurist quartered on it." There are enough persons in Great Britain to whom such sentiments as these are political gospel, to make it advisable for men of Lord Derby's order to look well to the use he makes of rights which he believes to be those of property in its simplest aspect. But if he once begin, as in the case before us, to use them as a means of exercising a sort of feudal jurisdiction over his tenantry, and punishing crimes in his own way, and of his own motion, of which the law alone ought to take cognizance, he may raise a storm of which it would be hard to predict the end. He is an old man and an English statesman, and for these reasons alone ought to know by this time that the only true and lasting foundation for a nation to be built upon, is that obedience to the law which comes not from blind fear but from reason and inclination. England has too many enemies abroad to allow of her treating with indifference the firm and deep-rooted disaffection of any portion of her population.

Niblo's Garden.—Mr. Burton, the comedian, commenced an engagement here last night, and "drew" a magnificent house. The entertainments were interesting merely for the part taken in them by Mr. Burton, who was of course admirable. The support which the management has vouchsafed to him is exactly the reverse.

Ohio Election—Position of Parties—Appearance of Douglas in the Field—Effects and Movement—Anticipated Results—The Presidency.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

The Beeches, Ohio, Thursday, Sept. 22, 1859.

If, as politicians say, the price of liberty is eternal vigilance, our liberty may be considered permanent. Our politicians never go to sleep. They watch by day, and watch by night. We have forty thousand officers to elect in Ohio, and, you may depend, it keeps us quite busy. We begin with President, and go to the Governor, and then to members of Congress; and when we have done with them, go to Judges and Mayors, and finally amuse ourselves with electing fence-viewers and infirmary directors. Every tenth man has to be elected to something. In fact, voting is the habitual business of the American people. Office is our test of aristocracy; besides which (as you know in New-York,) it often leads to fame and fortune. Hence, it is no wonder that we are interested in the result of elections. It is on this account that I shall review, for the Times, calmly and impartially, the politics of Ohio. I am familiar both with the men and the parties of the day—more so than those engaged in the canvass.

To begin, then, with the data furnished by our political history, no State, except Vermont and Massachusetts, has been more firmly and consistently opposed to what is called Democracy than Ohio. Taking the whole Opposition (without regard to divisions) and the Opposition gave the following majorities at each Presidential election. I prefix the aggregate vote of the State that you may see what proportion the majority bore to the whole vote:

	Aggregate.	Majority.
In 1836	302,353	8,497
In 1840	272,435	24,658
In 1844	312,224	13,998
In 1848	328,539	18,989
In 1852	353,428	14,988
In 1856	386,497	44,749

In 1836 and in 1840 there was no division of the Opposition, and Harrison (Whig) received the above majorities. In 1844 and 1856, Clay and Fremont, respectively, received the electoral vote in spite of divisions. In 1848 and 1852, the third ticket drew so much more from the Opposition, that the Democratic elctoral ticket had the plurality. Still, the fact remaining, that for more than twenty years the Democratic Party has never had a majority in Ohio at a test election. It appears, also, that the Opposition is not diminishing. The vote of 1856 exhibited a larger per cent. against the Democratic ticket than Harrison received in 1840.

In opposition to these historical facts it may be said—that Cass and Pierce received the vote of Ohio by the division of their opponents, and that this may occur again. So it may. But, it will be admitted, that unless either there is such a division, or a change in public sentiment, the vote of Ohio must go to the Opposition. Let us look at the probability of such occurrences. This leads us to examine the vote in local elections, and the analysis of parties. Ohio, like Massachusetts, is a conservative, anti-Slavery State. The two principles here are not antagonistic; on the contrary, they are harmonious. The public mind is unquestionably in favor of preventing the extension of Slavery; but, it would do this by Constitutional means, and no other. We believe that the properly exercised functions of Government are sufficient for this purpose; and there is no such ultraism here as threatens either the Union or the peace of the country. Let no man, however, mistake this anti-Slavery sentiment. It is as firm as it is conservative, and will not be bartered away. Recognizing this fact, it will be understood why some features of the Fugitive Slave Act were very offensive to public feeling here; and why the passage of the Nebraska-Kansas Act produced a most striking impression. The Missouri Act was viewed as the real and great compromise between the antagonistic forces of free and slave labor. Mr. Clay, the popular favorite in this region, was its author, and thirty-four years of time had imparted to it something of sacred reverence. The passage of the Nebraska act startled the public mind. It was viewed as alike reckless and unnecessary—the work of demagogues and a proof that the slave interest was gradually becoming predominant in the public policy. In this view, not merely Whigs but a very large body of Democrats united. New elements were at once evolved. Numbers of radical Democrats, and the majority of Germans, entered into what is called the Republican organization. Among them were many men of ardent minds and decided talent. Of these, were Judges Spalding and Brinkerhoff, the present Attorney-General Wolcott, Nichols, Carter and Lester, (members of Congress,) Charles Reemelin, (now Commissioner of the Reform School,) and Mollitor, editor of the Volksblott, an able and shrewd politician. About the same time occurred the formation of American Councils, which, in 1854, contained thousands of Democrats, some of whom would not like to be mentioned. The consequence of this combination was that in 1854 the Opposition candidate for Judge received 77,000 majority. But this was no test of party. The Democrats of the Councils generally returned to their old folds. But not so with those who honestly acted in the Republican organization. They were firm and consistent. In 1855, parties assumed their present shape. The votes given since stood thus:

	Republican.	Democrat.	American.
In 1855	146,641	131,091	24,310
In 1856	187,487	170,874	28,136
In 1857	160,541	159,060	10,135
In 1858	182,952	162,608	....

The small majority of the Republicans in 1857 was due merely to the falling off of votes—(60,000)—the Republicans being less active. In 1858 both sections of the Opposition united, and in a vote less by 40,000 than that of 1851, received 20,000 majority. The same fact remains. Mainly, (of course, with some exceptions,) the Opposition will be united this year. A few dissatisfied Americans called a State Convention at Zanesville, at which three persons only attended—a significant fact in the present canvass. The occurrence of a serious division will, therefore, not happen. The Opposition will, therefore, in all human probability, carry the State ticket, and the Legislature with it. But, it may be said, is there no change of sentiment? There is no State where a change of opinion is less likely to happen. The approval of Mr. Douglas was, no doubt, intended to have some such effect. He has not, however, materially aided his party. At Wooster, Wayne County, he denounced the Attorney-General of the United States and brought himself in conflict with the official organ of the Administration. His manner of speaking, as I am informed, is not impressive, especially at Cincinnati, where he had a severe cold. The pointed criticism of Mr. Lincoln exposed his weak points, and it is more than probable that Mr. Douglas' efforts will only serve to bring out Republican voters who might otherwise have staid at home. Mr. Douglas is, however, the favorite of the Ohio Democracy, and they will cling to him, in the hope that his skill and boldness may in some way aid them.

The contest, in the great County of Hamilton, Cincinnati, will be close and severe. With a steady majority, ranging from 3,000 to 5,000, the Democrats come to look upon it as their stronghold. The change among the Germans, however, turned the balance of power, and in 1858, the united Opposition had 1,200 majority. The Opposition Convention has just met, and again nominated a single ticket, with the probabilities in its favor,—dependent, of course, however, upon the relative activity and zeal of the respective parties.

It may be asked what bearings have all this on the Presidency? Very much. If the Democrats do not gain largely; nay, if they do not positively succeed, it will be proof positive in the minds of candid men that the Douglas dogma has brought no strength to the party, even in the Northwest. Indiana is adverse to him, and if he can gain nothing in Ohio, what can the Party gain by advancing his pretensions.

But you will ask, what is the position of the Republicans of Ohio? I have already said that Ohio is conservative, yet positively anti-Slavery. Ohio will present in the Convention, unless I am greatly mistaken, a candidate of her own, but in no intolerant or impracticable manner. She will ask the National Convention to agree with her in her choice, but will yield to the common judgment of the whole. To leave the ground of opposition to the extension of Slavery and ignore that great question is impossible. But here, at least, a patriotic conservatism on questions of general policy is not inconsistent with the anti-slavery principle. They may be, and they are harmonized in Ohio, but neither can be ignored. It is impossible that they should be harmonized among all the elements of opposition. In this question I present the practical problem of the elections.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The Portraits of Ex-Governor King and Mayor Tiemann—The Pavonia Ferry Franchise—The Expense of the Reception of the Richmond Authorities and Military Provided for—Another Track to be Laid in Canal-street.

At the Meeting of the Board of Aldermen, last evening, resolutions in favor of appropriating $500 to procure a portrait of Mayor TIEMANN, and $1,000 to procure a portrait of Ex-Governor KING, were presented and referred to the Committee on Arts and Sciences.

Alderman HENRY presented a preamble and resolutions, setting forth that the Pavonia Ferry Company had failed to comply with the terms of their agreement entered into with the Corporation in 1853, by which the Company was to establish, within one year, a ferry from the foot of Chambers-street to Pavonia-avenue, New-Jersey, having secured the necessary wharf and slip privileges for an annual rent of $9,050, and that the Company tacitly admits into possession of the slip and pier foot of Chambers-street, the New-York and Erie Railroad Company, and directing the Comptroller to advertise for sale all the wharf and slip privileges to which the Company would be entitled, had they complied with the agreement. It was referred to the Committee on Wharves, Piers and Slips.

The report of the Committee on Roads in favor of paving the Third-avenue from Fifty-sixth to Eighty-sixth-street with the Belgian trap block pavement—the Third-avenue Railway Company to pay the expense of paving the portion of the street required by them to be kept in repair, between and inside of their rails, the City and property-owners each to be assessed an equal portion of the expense—was presented and laid over.

The report of the same Committee in favor of paving the Fourth-avenue, from Seventeenth to Thirty-second-street, with trap block pavement, was adopted unanimously.

The report of the Committee that had charge of the reception of Mayor Mayo, the Common Council, and Grays, of Richmond, Va., stating that the expenses were $6,851 86, was taken up and adopted, all present voting in the affirmative.

The message of the Mayor, vetoing the resolution in favor of permitting the Eighth-avenue Railroad Company to lay another track in Canal-street, near Broadway, for the use of the Ninth-avenue Railroad Company, was taken from the table, and the original resolution was adopted, in spite of the objections of the Mayor, (Ayes, 13—Nays, 2,) Aldermen DARRAGH and OWENS voting in the negative.

The Board resolved to meet, during October, every Monday and Thursday at 5 P. M., and after the transaction of some further routine business, adjourned.

BOARD OF COUNCILMEN.

Veto Message of the Mayor—Proposed Improvement of the Five Points, and Sale of Hamilton-park—The City Hall Clock.

The Councilmen met at the usual hour, President CORNELL in the Chair.

A communication was received from the Mayor, returning, with his objection, the resolutions adopted by the Common Council on the 19th ult. declaring null and void the leases of the Grand-street and Peck-slip ferries, recently granted to Messerole and others. The message recites the history of the original Ferry grants, and affirms that the leases were disposed of to Messerole and others in conformity with the statute. The lessees having paid the rents of the same, and having expended large sums in the construction of boats, and in the repairs of the ferry slips, the Mayor condemns the attempted revocation of the leases as a breach of faith, which is calculated to undermine confidence in the City government, besides subjecting the City to heavy damages. The message was laid over.

A resolution was adopted for the appointment of a Special Committee to report an ordinance to provide for the appointment of suitable persons to inspect the condition of steam boilers, in order to guard against accidents similar to that which recently occurred at the Girard House.

Councilman LENT offered the following preamble and resolution, which were adopted:

Whereas, That portion of the City commonly known as the Five Points has been a disgrace and reproach to the Empire City;

Whereas, All efforts to regenerate the same have thus far been unsuccessful; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee on Lands and Places report to this Board the expediency of taking measures to secure that portion of the City bounded by Centre, Pearl, Chatham, Mott and Walker streets, (or any portion of the same,) and laying it out as a public park, and erecting on a portion of the same suitable buildings for the accommodation of the Croton, Street and City Inspector's Departments.

Mr. LENT introduced a resolution, asking the Legislature for permission to sell the lands now constituting Hamilton-square, and to apply the proceeds toward the liquidation of the City debt. Adopted.

The report of the Committee on Finance of the Board of Aldermen, appropriating $11,400 to the Street Commissioner for the expenses of the Fire Department, was laid over.

A resolution was adopted directing the Street Commissioner to do nothing further with the contract for the City Hall clock, and to send all papers relating to the matter to the Board, to await their action thereon.

The Board adjourned to Thursday next, at 5 o'clock P. M.

The Appropriations for the Fire Department.

The Street Commissioner and the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department have recently had a sharp controversy with regard to the appropriations for the Fire Department. On the 16th ult., it will be remembered, the Street Commissioner addressed a communication to the Common Council, stating that the appropriation for the Fire Department would be exhausted after all bills for which that appropriation was liable, should have been paid. At the same time he gave a schedule of the amount expended by each officer of the Department authorized to incur expenditures on that account, quoted the section of the charter which forbids any Head of Department incurring expense when there is no appropriation to cover it, and asked that an amount sufficient to meet necessary outlays for the safety of property should forthwith be appropriated by the Common Council.

In our addendum to this communication was a copy of a letter from the Chief Engineer to the Street Commissioner, stating "that every article of Fire apparatus is in perfect working condition," and "no fresh amount of appropriation will be needed for this Bureau." The Street Commissioner remarked in reference to this assertion, that "he was at a loss to understand how such result could have been attained when recommendations to the amount of $2,217 were still awaiting his approval." Recommendations from the Chief Engineer still continuing to arrive at the office of the Street Commissioner, the latter, on the 26th of September, addressed a letter to the Chief Engineer, acknowledging the receipt of the letter above alluded to, and said "either the business of your Bureau is not completed, and every article of fire-apparatus is not in perfect working order, or these recommendations are made unnecessarily." After stating the condition of the appropriation, and the fact that no provision had been made for the laborers at the Corporation-yard during the remainder of the year, he concludes by saying, "In view of this state of affairs in your Bureau, to make repeated recommendations for the painting of apparatus is worse than idle," and "until provision shall have been made by the Common Council to defray expenses, no recommendations whatever will be ratified by me, and I have to request that you will make none." On the 27th the Chief-Engineer replied, and subsequently sent a postscript returning the Street Commissioner's letter, in these words: "I inclose and return your communication; it is not personally offensive, but it is disrespectful to the chosen chief of Four thousand volunteer Firemen who values and greatfully appreciates the high honor conferred, and who will not consent to be rode over rough-shod by any one man appointee."

We are informed that there is a strong probability that the Common Council will approve the recommendation of the Street Commissioner, and appropriate a sum sufficient for indispensable repairs to apparatus during the Winter.

NEW-JERSEY WATERS AND NEW-YORK RUBBISH.—Gov. NEWELL, of New-Jersey, has issued a proclamation in defence of the fisheries against the deposit of rubbish from New-York. The Governor declares that he has received information to the following effect:

"That the rights of the people of New-Jersey in and to the shad, oyster, and other fisheries in the waters 'lying west of the middle of the Bay of New-York, and west of the middle of that part of the Hudson River which lies between Manhattan Island and New-Jersey,' as well as their right to navigate the same, is being seriously impaired by the habitual and constant deposit, without the authority of the Government of this State, of large quantities of offensive and deleterious matters, dredged from the docks, and the outlets of the sewers, of the City of New-York; and which, if persisted in, must ultimately be destructive to the privileges now enjoyed by our citizens to fish and to navigate therein, and injurious to the health of those of them living contiguous thereto; and, whereas, the deposit of this matter is an unauthorized violation of the sovereign rights of the State of New-Jersey, and is detrimental to the interests of the riparian proprietors, now therefore, I, WM. A. NEWELL, Governor of the State of New-Jersey, do issue this my proclamation, warning and commanding all persons whatever, forthwith to desist from making any further deposit of earth or other matter upon the land, the property of this State, under the waters aforesaid."

CITY INTELLIGENCE.

OPENING OF THE LAW DEPARTMENT OF THE NEW-YORK UNIVERSITY.—The Winter term of the Law Department of the New-York University was formally inaugurated yesterday morning, between the hours of nine and eleven. The interval was occupied by Mr. WEDGEWORTH, the Secretary and one of the Law Faculty, in entering students desirous of attending the lectures on Jurisprudence which will form the Winter Course. In the evening the Hon. LEVI S. CHATFIELD delivered the opening address in the large chapel of the University, to a moderately large audience, which included Chancellor FERRIS, the Hon. Judges ROOSEVELT and CLERKE, Prof. WEDGEWORTH and Mr. HAWLEY. The lecturer considered law in its two great aspects,—first, as a repository of learning, an embodiment of logic, and an important element of literature; second, as a great social necessity, and an essential component of civilization. He treated also of lawyers, of their duties to their clients, by whom they are made recipients of their secrets, and of their duties to their own consciences, which require of them invariably to be truthful. Mr. HAWLEY was to have delivered the second address, but in consequence of the length of Mr. CHATFIELD'S, it was postponed till Thursday evening next.

SCHOOLMASTER ASSAULTED BY A SCHOLAR.—Last evening the Fourth Ward Evening School in William-street, in common with all the other evening schools in this City, was opened, and during the evening Mr. FRANCIS MCCUE, one of the teachers, had occasion to reprove DENNIS O'NEIL, a scholar 18 years of age, for the manner in which he recited a lesson. O'NEIL was very abusive in his language towards the teacher, and Mr. MCCUE immediately took the unruly disciple by the coat-collar, and put him into the street. About 9 o'clock, as the teacher was proceeding homewards, he was met a the door by a gang of nearly thirty juvenile "Dead Rabbits," the chief among whom was O'NEIL, who, with a formidable bludgeon, felled MCCUE to the ground, and then ran away. The teacher sprang up, and, having a revolver, he fired two shots at the fugitive, but neither of them took effect. Policeman DIVEN, of the Sixth Ward, noticing the flying O'NEIL, gave chase, and captured him. He was taken to the Sixth Ward Station-house and locked up. Dr. WATERMAN, one of the Police surgeons, attended the injured pedagogue. The wound is on the back part of the head, the skull being broken, but the injury is not deemed serious.

THE SHOOTING AFFRAY AT FRENCH'S HOTEL.—Mr. HUGHES, who was shot at an early hour yesterday morning, at FRENCH'S Hotel, is not so dangerously injured as was at first supposed. The ball passed through the fleshy part of the arm, just below the elbow, inflicting a painful wound. The physician in attendance thinks there will be no necessity of amputating the limb. WILKINS, who fired the pistol, is a printer. He came into the bar-room with five or six of his acquaintances about 12 o'clock, and engaged in a conversation on Gen. WALKER'S operations in Nicaragua, dwelling with much emphasis on the prowess which he, himself, displayed during the campaign. The bar was closed at the usual hour—1 o'clock—but the group remained talking in front of it. A remark of WILKINS' having excited the mirth of his companions, he stepped back a few paces, drew his pistol and discharged it, apparently without taking any aim. Mr. HUGHES, who received the bullet, is a St. Louis merchant, and was not a participant in the dispute which led to the affray. In fact, he had not spoken with WILKINS' party at all, but when shot stood at a distance of several feet from the disputants, and was conversing with the book-keeper of the hotel. WILKINS remains in the Tombs on a charge of felonious assault.

THE KANE MONUMENT ASSOCIATION.—The incorporators of the Kane Monument Association held a meeting on Wednesday last. Dr. JOHN W. FRANCIS occupied the Chair. Mr. J. H. WHITE reported that the following gentlemen had engaged to lecture in aid of the fund now collecting for the erection of a monument: Prof. O. M. MITCHELL, Messrs. BAYARD TAYLOR, G. W. CURTIS, the Rev. Drs. CUMMINGS and CHAPIN, and the Rev. H. W. BEECHER. On motion of Col. SAMUEL C. THOMPSON, the Lecture Committee were empowered to make all the necessary arrangements for the delivery of the course. It was also resolved that a vote of thanks properly engraved should be tendered to the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of New-York for their assistance in raising contributions. At present Dr. JOHN W. FRANCIS is President of the Association, ROBERT L. DE COIN, Vice-President, Col. MARSHALL LEFFERTS, Treasurer, and SIDNEY KOPMAN, Secretary. Col. SAMUEL C. THOMPSON is Chairman of the Finance Committee, Mr. JOHN H. WHITE, of the Lecture Committee, Mr. THOMAS HICKS of the Committee on Design. The monument which it is proposed to erect within the next two years, will cost about $25,000. Mr. HICKS will submit a report on the design at the next meeting of the Association.

THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC STEAMSHIP COMPANY.—Yesterday being the day for opening the stock subscription books of the Atlantic and Pacific Steamship Company, there was a large meeting at No. 177 West-street, of those who were desirous of subscribing to the stock of the new Company. The full amount of capital is reported to have been subscribed before 3 o'clock P. M. There were present Commodore VANDERBILT, MOSES TAYLOR, CHARLES MORGAN, MARSHALL O. ROBERTS and others. The subscriptions varied from $50,000 to $300,000. The meeting of the Stockholders for the election of Directors is advertised for to-day. The Company now assert that they possessed the money they require, besides the requisite steamers to perform the service to California upon a permanent basis.

MILITARY ITEMS.—Brigadier-General YATES has issued orders for the annual inspection and review of the different regiments which compose the Second Brigade of the New-York State Militia. The Sixth Regiment parade at Madison-square on Monday, the 10th inst., at 3 o'clock, P. M.; the Fifth Regiment at Hamilton-square on the succeeding Wednesday, at 9 A. M.; and the Fourth Regiment at the Parade Ground of East New-York on Thursday, the 13th inst., at 11 A. M. The Brigade Staff parade on the 12th inst., at 10 A. M., at Hamilton-square. Colonel VAN BEWREN, of the Ninth Regiment has issued orders for the inspection of his command. The review will take place at 9 A. M. on Friday, the 14th inst., at Hamilton-square. At an election for Second Lieutenants in Company C., held to fill vacancies, DAVID BANKS, Jr., and CHARLES E. PRESCOTT were elected, to rank from Sept. 26.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE AMERICAN BIBLE UNION.—The Anniversary of the Bible Union will commence to-morrow, at 9 o'clock A.M., in the church, corner of Broome and Elizabeth streets. The meetings will continue morning, afternoon and evening, through two days. Interesting reports on the progress of the revision of the English Bible will be presented. The following, among other speakers, will address the Union: Drs. Hackett and Swaim, Massachusetts; the Rev. Mr. Evans, Connecticut; Drs. Eaton, Conant, Armitage, Wyckoff, and Cleghorn, New-York; the Rev. J. Challen, Pennsylvania; Dr. Breoddus, Virginia; Breckenridge, Ind.; Thomas, Ohio; Henderson, Kentucky; Trottman, N.C.; Prof. Loos of Virginia, and others.

DEATHS BY DROWNING.—On Sunday last PATRICK COLEMAN, while intoxicated, staggered off the Pier at the foot of Perry-street, North River. A plank was thrown to him, but he did not succeed in seizing it, and was drowned. The body, which was soon recovered, was conveyed to the former home of the deceased, in West Tenth-street, near Greenwich. Coroner JACKMAN held an inquest....The body of a well-dressed man, apparently 30 years of age, was found yesterday in the Hudson River, at the foot of Thirty-seventh-street. An inquest will be held to-day.

TROTTING ON LONG ISLAND.—Quite a numerous assemblage was in attendance at the Union Course yesterday to witness the trot between Brown Dick, entered by D. PFEIFFER, and Lancet, entered by D. TALLMAN. The match was for $1,900, mile-heats, best three in five. Brown Dick was the favorite in betting, $100 to $40, and won without an effort, making the three first heats in 2:32; 2:31, and 2:31½. There was also a trot on the Jamaica Road yesterday for a purse of $200. Mr. BEARD entered g. g. Newark, and Mr. MOTT b. g. Ramrod The former won two mile heats in succession. Time was not taken.

TARGET EXCURSIONS.—The Old Relief Guard Capt. CHRIS. GALVIN, went to Weekawken, on their fifth annual target excursion yesterday. The company numbered eighty muskets, and contended for forty prizes. The Michael Murphy Guard also paraded under the command of Capt. FELIX LARKIN. There were 120 men in the company, and 75 prizes were distributed amongst them. Bull's Head Ferry was the spot selected for their target practice.

NEW-YORK TYPOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.—The following officers were elected at the semi-annual meeting of this Society on Saturday evening: President ROBERT S. MENAMIN; Vice-President, WILLIAM B BROMELL; Secretary, T. CHARLES FAULKNER; Treasurer, JAMES NABINE; Trustees, CHARLES C SAVAGE and JOHN THOMAS; Librarian, JOHN CRAW. The Society now numbers 185 members.

DR. BOYNTON'S LECTURES.—Dr. BOYNTON delivered the introductory Lecture of his Course, at Cooper Institute, last evening. The subject was, "The formation of the Heavens and Earth, and the laws which govern the motion of the heavenly bodies." The large hall of the Institute was crowded with an interested audience.

THE CASUALTY ON THE STEAM-TUG ACTIVE.—FRANCIS HARRIS, one of the boys who was scalded Saturday night on board the steam-tug Active, died yesterday at the Hospital. Coroner JACKMAN promises to investigate this mysterious case to day. As the tug had gone down the Bay, no witnesses could be procured yesterday.

THE FULTON BANK DEFALCATION.—The further examination into the case of WM. J. LANE, Jr., charged with embezzling over $60,000 of the funds of the Fulton Bank, was to have taken place yesterday before Justice OSBORN, but was postponed to Thursday next.

A DETECTING EXPEDITION.—Two of the Brooklyn Detectives and three from this City left for Albany last night. They will watch for pickpockets at the State Fair.

Police Reports.

A COUNTERFEITER'S HOARD DISCOVERED AND SEIZED.—Yesterday morning Officer Fitzmaurice, of the Second Ward, called at the late residence of Frederick Schnooks, or Schnocks—a tenement house in Ridge-street, near Grand—and searched a trunk which he had previously heard contained a large amount of counterfeit bank bills. He found a package of the worthless paper representing, in the aggregate, $3,000. Most of it was finished and ready for circulation, while a portion had not been filled in with the signatures of President and Cashier. In all there were five different counterfeits. The following is a description of them: 1. "Ones" on the Memphis Savings Institution, Bank of Memphis, Tenn. These are very well engraved. 2. "Twos" on the same bank. Vignettes, a female, a locomotive, and a bust of Washington. 3. "Twos" on the Bank of Commerce, of Providence, R. I. 4. "Twos" on the Bank of Commerce, of Baltimore, Md. 5. "Twos" on the Bank of Commerce, of Cleveland, Ohio. The three last named counterfeits differ only in the name of the State. The vignettes are the same as those of the "twos" on the Memphis Bank. In addition there were a large quantity of "fives" for counterfeiting any New-Jersey bank bill of that denomination, by merely pasting over the blank spaces the name of the bank and city. The vignettes are well executed. On the right is the bust of Andrew Jackson, on the left is a representation of Justice, and a full-length figure of Washington, surrounded by his officers. The bogus bills were all delivered into the custody of the Deputy-Superintendent.

GONE WHERE SHE WAS WANTED.—Mrs. Lena Kleinschmidt, whose alleged exploits as a shop-lifter have given her much notoriety, was carried off to Chicago yesterday, on a requisition from the Governor of Illinois, to answer three indictments for grand larceny. Lena is said to have accumulated considerable property in Hackensack, N. J., where she has resided. During the past Summer, she has been making the tour of Europe. Officer King, of the Lower Police Court, found her yesterday, in Third-avenue, arrested her, and passed her over to the custody of Detective Bradley, of Chicago.

HANGING FOR FUN.—Sunday morning, Jack Feagan, with several friends, entered the saloon of Harry Jennings, in Madison-street, and having obtained a supply of liquor without paying for it, proceeded to break everything in the bar-room which they could lay their hands on. Opening the front door they saw a quiet-looking old gentleman passing by, whom they seized. Having dragged him into the room, they threatened to hang him, and were about putting the rope around his neck, when he managed to escape from his persecutors. Feagan was arrested by the Fourth Ward Police last evening and locked up to answer.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.—Thos. Rooney was arrested at the Melodeon, in the Bowery, on Sunday evening, by Officers Flavin and Hilliard, of the First Ward on a charge of being a fugitive from Utica, where he had broken into the trunk of a man named Sherwood and stolen $300. He was forwarded to Utica yesterday afternoon.

ALLEGED BURGLER ARRESTED.—Francis Burke was arrested last evening by Officer Jouroan, of the Sixth Ward, on a charge of having committed a burglary at No. 84½ Baxter-street, and stealing $183 worth of property. The accused was detained.

BURNING OF THE LION BREWERY.

Forty Thousand Dollars' Worth of Grain Destroyed—Total Loss $278,000—Total Insurance $135,000.

The burning of the Lion Lager Bier Brewery on Sunday night proves to have involved a much more serious destruction of property than was at first supposed. The brewery buildings were near the Bloomingdale Road, between One Hundred and Seventh and One Hundred and Ninth streets, where they were erected about two years ago by Messrs. ALBERT SPEYERS & Co. The establishment was the largest of the kind in the United States. The main building is 100 feet by 50 feet, five stories high, with a vault beneath thirty-six feet deep. There were two smaller buildings adjoining, which were used as a malt-house, for storing grain and for other purposes, and a large shed 250 feet in length for storing barrels. At a short distance from the shed there was a small dwelling house and a large stable. The quantity of bier manufactured daily was three hundred full barrels; and with the aid of additional machinery, which had recently been put in, it was expected the average quantity manufactured would be 500 barrels per day. A portion of the brewery building was occupied by a brother of Mr. SPEYERS and his family, and it was by him that the fire was discovered. He had retired at about 9 o'clock, and soon afterward was aroused by a crackling noise, when he found that his room was filled with smoke. His first thought was to awaken his family. He ran immediately to his servant's room, but she was not in. He then passed to the door of the room occupied by his housekeeper, and rapped loudly, but received no answer. He tried the door, and called the housekeeper by name, but, receiving no answer, burst the door open, and after some time succeeded in partially awakening her. She was stupefied by the heat and smoke, and would, he says, have gone immediately into the fire had she not been carried away. Going out of the room, he saw that the entire building was in flames, and gave the alarm as quickly as possible. The fire-bells were soon sounding, and the people in the neighborhood gathered, in large numbers. Although there was a hydrant and tank on the premises, they could not be used effectively. The fire companies in the District were also soon there, but it was even then apparent that the main building and the shed and buildings attached could not be saved from entire destruction. By a well-directed effort, however, the firemen succeeded in keeping the flames from the small dwelling-house and stable, which, as has been stated, were some little distance from the shed. Although none of the horses belonging to the establishment were burned, the loss is very serious. There was $40,000 worth of barley in the buildings, which was burning all day yesterday, and which is, of course, entirely destroyed.

This grain was sent in by HILLETT & Co., of No. 303 Pearl-street; they are insured for $25,000 in the following companies;

American Exchange	5,000	Goodhue	5,000
Fulton	5,000	New World	2,500
Montauk	5,000	Exchange	2,500

The walls of the main building were 2½ feet thick at the base, and portions of them are still standing. Nothing, however, remains so that it can be of use in rebuilding as it stands. The entire loss of property is estimated at $278,000, on which there is an Insurance as follows in the Insurance offices named:

Metropolitan	$5,500	Security	5,500
Merchants	5,500	Washington	5,500
United States	5,500	Manhattan	5,500
Niagara	5,500	Knickerbocker	$5,500
Citizens	5,500	New-York Fire and Marine	5,500
Clinton	5,500	Jersey City	5,500
Royal	5,500	East River	5,500
Relief	5,500	Fireman's Fund	5,500
Market	5,500	Columbia	5,500
Jefferson	5,500
Astor	5,500
Total loss			$278,000
Total insurance			135,000

The brother of Mr. ALBERT SPEYERS, who was in the building, and who discovered the fire, lost all his furniture, some money, and his watch and jewelry. Another loss is that to a large number of workmen who have been thrown out of employment for the present by the fire. Mr. SPEYERS says the company will commence building another brewery as soon as possible. The company is composed of several persons. The principals are Messrs. ALBERT and JAMES SPEYERS and Capt. HOWARD, who is in England.

The fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary, and the Fire Marshal, Mr. BAKER, is investigating the matter.

HOTELS.

FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL,
ON 5TH AV.,
AT THE INTERSECTION OF BROADWAY, OPPOSITE MADISON-SQUARE, NEW-YORK.

TO BE OPENED AUG. 23, 1859.

This location is the most desirable of any in this great Metropolis, being the most healthy, delightful, and central in the City, and very near and convenient to the Hudson River and Boston Railroad depots.

The entire arrangements of the establishment are the result of mature study and experience, and render it the most comfortable and home-like hotel in the world.

All the improvements that comfort and convenience have suggested have been introduced.

Every precaution has been taken, during construction, to secure the positive safety of guests from the dangers of conflagration. Subdivision double brick walls extend from the rock foundation to the roof. All of the floors are double, and are separated by a layer of cement, making the entire structure fireproof.

Among other important improvements, in addition to the usual stairways, a vertical railway is nearly completed to convey guests from the first to upper floors, upon a plan which admits of no possibility of accident.

Lofty, spacious and continuous corridors, forming a promenade of eight hundred feet upon each of the six stories, give light and air, in the highest degree, to every apartment.

A liberal space has been appropriated to public drawing-rooms and parlors, connecting which and the dining-rooms there is a grand promenade hall. Suites of spacious parlors, chambers and dressing-rooms, with all the modern conveniences, have been especially designed for the comfort of families, traveling parties and single gentlemen.

An exchange, containing the journals of the day, and all the conveniences for commercial intercourse and business, has been added to the many other features of the Hotel, and there is a telegraph office connecting with all parts of the country.

Billiard and chess rooms of the most approved style and appointments, are provided for the use of guests and the public.

The furniture, and every article of use in the establishment has been expressly designed and manufactured for the FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL.

All communications for apartments, or upon any business connected with the house, please direct to "FIFTH-AVENUE HOTEL," in order to insure immediate attention.

The entire organization of this Hotel has been under the direction of Mr. PARAN STEVENS, Proprietor of Revere and Tremont Houses in Boston, and Battle and Point Clear Houses in Mobile, and will be conducted by Your obedient servants.

HITCHCOCK, DARLING & CO.

PUBLIC NOTICES.

CENTRAL PARK ORDINANCES.—THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE CENTRAL PARK do ordain as follows:

No animal shall travel on any part of the Central Park except on the "ride," or equestrian road, at a rate exceeding five miles an hour. Persons on horseback shall not travel on the "ride," or equestrian road, at a rate exceeding six miles per hour.

No vehicle shall be permitted on the "ride," or equestrian road, the same being devoted exclusively to equestrians; nor shall any vehicle, horse, or animal of burden, enter any part of the Central Park, except upon the "ride," and other carriage and transverse roads, and such places as are appropriated for carriages at rest.

No animal or vehicle shall be permitted to stand upon the drive or carriage roads of the Central Park, or any part thereof, to the obstruction of the way or to the inconvenience of travel, nor shall any person upon the Central Park solicit or invite passengers.

No hackney coach, carriage, or other vehicle for hire, licensed upon any part of the Central Park for the purpose of taking in any other passengers or persons than those carried to the Park by said coach, carriage, or vehicle.

No person shall expose any article or thing for sale in the Central Park, except previously licensed by the Board of Commissioners of the Central Park, nor shall any hawking or peddling be allowed on the Central Park.

No omnibus, cart, dray, wagon, truck, or other vehicle carrying goods, merchandise, manure, soil, or other articles, or solely used for the carriage of goods, merchandise, manure, or other articles, shall be allowed to enter any part of the Central Park, except upon the transverse roads.

No threatening, abusive, insulting or indecent language shall be allowed on the Central Park, whereby a breach of the peace may be occasioned.

No person shall be allowed to tell fortunes, or play at any game of chance at or with any table or instrument of the same, nor to do any obscene or indecent act whatever on the Central Park.

In case of an emergency where life and property are endangered, all persons, if required so to do by the Superintendent, or any of his assistants, shall remove from the grounds of the Central Park specified by the Superintendent or his assistants, and remain off the same till permission is given to return.

The above ordinances were adopted and passed at a meeting of the Board of Commissioners of the Central Park duly convened and held, on the 23d day of September, 1859, and are published in obedience to the requirements of an act entitled, "An act for the regulation and government of the Central Park in the City of New York," passed April seventeenth, eighteen hundred and fifty-seven. The following section of said act is applicable to the above ordinances:

§ 8. All persons offending against such ordinances shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and be punished on conviction before the Mayor, Recorder, or any Magistrate of the City of New York, by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars; and in default of payment, by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days.

By order of the Board. ANDREW H. GREEN, President of the Board of Commissioners of the Central Park.

MUSICAL.

THE DRIGGS PATENT PIANO-FORTE
Are all of the full scale of 7-octave. The most experienced workmen, the greatest perfection of mechanical skill, and the best seasoned materials are employed in their manufacture.

They are constructed on a solid iron frame or bedplate, entirely separate from the case, thus relieving the case, sound-boards and all the wood-work from the strain of the strings, making them much more solid and enduring. There are two sounding boards, arranged as those of a violin, giving three times the amount of vibrating surface found in any other piano; which, being free from the strain of the strings, becomes more sonorous and pure on their vibrations as the piano becomes older. Their construction is the most simple and scientific, and they are the most enduring and full-toned pianos ever made. Call and see them, at WM. HALL & SON'S,

BROOKLYN INTELLIGENCE.

COMMON COUNCIL.—An adjourned meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held last evening, and considerable routine business was transacted. A communication was received from the Mayor, remitting the penalty incurred by the contractor for delay in the grading and paving of Douglass-street from Nostrand and Vanderbilt avenues. The usual order to publish was made. A large number of petitions, bills, &c., were presented and referred to appropriate Committees. The matter of framing an ordinance imposing a fine of $5 upon any person who shall put a wrong number upon any house, was referred to a Special Committee. A communication received from Judge CULVER, with alternate mandamus issued by the Supreme Court upon application of T. O'REILLY, Constable, was referred to the Counselor, with directions to defend the City. This is a case made up to test a recent decision of Judge CULVER, against paying Constables for serving warrants and other papers, on the ground that the serving of such papers comes within the duties of Policemen.

A list of polling places was presented and adopted. A resolution was adopted, making the filling of vacancies in the office of Inspectors of Election the special order for next Monday evening. The Finance Committee reported in favor of paying judgment against the City for $2,168, obtained by B. C. LYMAN. The report was adopted. A resolution that the expense of each polling place at the November election shall not exceed $40, was adopted.

Petitions, numerously signed, were presented, in favor of macadamizing Flatbush-avenue. The Sewer Commissioners presented an ordinance for the construction of sewers; which was referred to the Committee on that subject. A petition was presented for permission to lay rails and run horse-cars from Broadway through Greene and Fulton avenues to Fulton Ferry. Referred to the Railroad Committee. A petition to run horse-cars through Grand-street to Newtown, was also presented and referred to the same Committee. After the transaction of some further business the Board adjourned to one week.

AMERICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.—The American County Convention met last evening in Granada Hall, Myrtle-avenue. The Convention was organized by selecting ASHBEL MILLER, of the Thirteenth Ward, Chairman, and J. Q. ADAMS, of the Eighth Ward, Secretary. A suggestion to adopt several of the leading candidates on the Republican County ticket met with the most bitter opposition. After considerable discussion, a motion to take an informal ballot for District Attorney was carried, and resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes cast, 40.

John Winslow received	14 votes.
E. T. Wood received	21 votes.
Winchester Britton received	4 votes.
Blank	1 vote.

On the first formal ballot, Mr. WINSLOW, who is the Republican candidate for the same office, received 15 votes, and Mr. WOOD, 24. Mr. WOOD, having received the highest number of votes cast, was declared the nominee of the party. He subsequently came into the Convention, and in a short speech accepted the nomination.

The Convention then nominated a full ticket as follows:

For District Attorney—E. T. Wood.
For County Judge—Winchester Britton.
For Justice of Sessions—W. H. Hoyt.
For County Treasurer—Alfred Dorlan.
Superintendents of the Poor—Samuel Myers, Stephen O. Jennings.
For Coroners—George J. Kibbe, *Nelson L. North.
Justices of the Peace—John Q. Adams, John P. Teale, Wm. M. Nodine.
* Republican nominee.

INDEPENDENT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—A Convention of "Morris" or Independent Democrats was held at Holder's, in New-Brooklyn, last evening, when the following County ticket was placed in nomination:

For District Attorney—SAMUEL D. MORRIS.
For Senator, Third District—A. R. HETFIELD.
For Superintendent of the Poor, E. D.—ROBERT ALLEN.
For Superintendent of the Poor, County—G. A. EMANS.

The balance of the "regular" Democratic ticket was adopted.

A HOSPITAL CLOSED.—The Long Island College Hospital, which was opened about one year ago, has refused to treat patients seeking out-door attendance.

THE CITIZENS' GAS LIGHT COMPANY.—The stock of this Company—$500,000—has all been taken up, and the works will be commenced this Fall. W. P. LIBBY, Esq., has been elected President of the Company.

THE HOME FOR WITNESSES.

A Visit to the White-street House of Detention—How the Inmates Live—The Witnesses in the Case of Macdonald.

Among the improvements which the Metropolitan Police Law was designed to make in the ineffectual system under which the crime of the City was brought to publicity and justice, there was not one that met with as early and general approval as that which directed the Commissioners to establish a house for the detention of witnesses, distinct from the places in which criminals themselves were confined. The evil effects of the former system, in which no distinction was made between the criminal and the person held as witness, had long been recognized, and nowhere had the necessity of reform been so repeatedly and strenuously urged as in the columns of the NEW-YORK TIMES. Experience taught the lesson that weeks and months of association with confirmed vice did not add to the sanctity of the witness-box in the mind of him whose truth or falsehood might determine the punishment of the innocent, and the exculpation of the guilty. The impropriety and unconstitutionality of the thing had always been acknowledged, while the manner in which it could be cured, without paralyzing the arm of justice, was a question of great difficulty and tardy solution.

Until the enactment of the Metropolitan Police Law, it was the custom to confine all witnesses whose presence in Court it was desirable to secure, in the City Prison. Their characters might be unimpeachable, but if they were too poor, or had not sufficient influence to obtain bail, they were condemned to the same fate as the incurable felon. As soon, however, as was practicable after the recognition of that law as constitutional, a place for the reception of these innocent prisoners was established, and has since furnished the most gratifying results. The place of detention embraces two buildings standing together in White-street—numbers 86 and 88. The walls are brick; they are three stories in height, with the addition of basements and roomy attics. They are each 25 feet by 80, and have yards in the rear somewhat larger than is usual in that part of the City. The basement of No. 86 is used as a kitchen, and the basement of No. 88 is the dining-room. In the rear of No. 86 an addition has been made, the basement of which is used as a wash-room, and the upper part as a sitting-room. In other respects the arrangement of the two buildings is nearly the same. There are in all 34 rooms. The first floor of each—aside from the rear extension to No. 86—is divided into two rooms. In No. 86 these rooms are occupied by the family of Mr. ISAAC MERZBOLZ—the keeper—as parlors. The other floors are similarly divided, and have large hall-rooms in addition. This house is reserved for the accommodation of females; the males occupying No. 88. On the second floor the two large rooms, and all the small rooms are used as bedrooms; as, in fact, are all the rooms on the upper floors when they are required. In No. 88 they are employed for the same purpose, with the exception of two rooms on the first floor, which are used as sitting rooms; the rear large room on the second floor as an infirmary for the detained when any of the male inmates are sick. The ventilation, although not as satisfactory as it might be, is as good, because it is the same, as in any ordinary dwelling house in that locality. The furniture in the Male Department is, perhaps, meagre. There are no carpets, but the floors are clean, and the rooms do not give out offensive odors. The bedsteads are of iron; and if the beds and bedding are not such as people in independent circumstances usually purchase, they are clean and not uncomfortable; doubtless to many of the detenus, they are luxurious. The Female Department is much more liberally furnished. The large rear room and the second floor is, at present, occupied by Miss MARY BROOKS and Miss ALICE MORGAN, who are detained as witnesses in the Macdonald case. It is neatly carpeted; has a large and apparently comfortable bed, and is otherwise well arranged for the use to which it is put. The occupants were there while our reporter was examining the premises, and appeared entirely at their ease, though not without the natural desire to be again at liberty, and the wish to have MACDONALD'S trial occur as early as possible. They were both engaged in sewing—Miss MORGAN with a machine, and Miss BROOKS by hand—and while thus engaged, spoke with freedom of the probable results of MACDONALD'S trial. They are well informed as to the public's notion of what the defense in the case will be, and expressed the conviction that as RUFUS CHOATE was dead, no man but JAMES T. BRADY, assisted by some active junior, accustomed to the employment of money, could possibly succeed in acquitting him upon the plea of insanity. They gave it as their opinion, that gold was an effectual lubricator when it was desirable to slip a criminal through Court without punishment. Miss MORGAN asked, with apparent interest, whether it was probable, if ed, with apparent interest, whether it was probable, if she should do something desperate, that she could be acquitted on the score of insanity. Miss BROOKS had heard of a gentleman who had written to MACDONALD'S mother that he could swear the prisoner was insane; but they both felt confident the letters MACDONALD had written before he committed the deed, the fact of his carrying arms while in search of his victim, and some subsequent acts, showed a measure of self-possession that would give his counsel some trouble. They had also heard that MACDONALD'S mother was very ill and not expected to recover; and they expressed the belief that if the homicide must go to the gallows, it would be better were she taken away before she should come to a knowledge of that fact.

The other rooms in the Female Department are all comfortably furnished and not ill ventilated.

The house was established on the 1st of February, 1858. Nine days afterwards nineteen witnesses were received from the Tombs, most of them in a filthy condition. Before being allowed to go to their rooms they were thoroughly washed and the condition of their clothing improved. The average number received since then has been about 30, each month—nearly one-third of whom have been females. At the present time there are 24 witnesses in the house, 7 of whom are females. These are from all the Courts with the exception of the United States. Marshal RYNDERS sends but few of the witnesses under his charge there. The inmates are called at 6½ A. M. and have breakfast at 7. They then enjoy the use of the sitting-rooms, or the yard, for recreation, until 9 at night; when they return to their several apartments, and are locked in until morning. Besides the keeper, there are three doormen in attendance. One remains on watch all night, so that in case of the sudden illness of any one, Dr. WATERBURY, the surgeon, may be called, and such other attendance as may be required may be given. Sometimes witnesses are brought in who have been severely injured in fights or otherwise. Such are taken to the infirmary already mentioned, where they are cared for as their cases demand. There have been as many as four or five at a time in the hospital-room. Occasionally a witness is received, who, on account of turbulent conduct, has to be sent to the Tombs; but such is not often the case, for when there they are generally inclined to be orderly. Whenever there are a number of children detained as witnesses, it is the custom of the keeper to form them into a class, and instruct them in the rudiments as taught in the Common Schools. On Sunday evenings, they have religious services, in the main parlors of No. 86, and in every way there seems to be a judicious provision for the comfort, pleasure, and improvement of those who are obliged to remain there. The establishment is by the act, placed under the supervision of the Board of Police Commissioners. All supplies, however, are voted by the Board of Supervisors, an arrangement which sometimes causes inconvenience to the Commissioners and Supervisors is not uniformly of one mind on the question of supplies. Nevertheless, although the iron gratings in front of the windows in No. 86, give the building something of the aspect of a Station-house, or an Insane Asylum, there can be very little occasion to complain of the accommodation within.

Are Registrars and Inspectors of Election the same Officers?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your interpretation of the Registry Law, I think you have fallen into an error. In your paper of Sept. 29, you attempt to show that the Board of Registrars, appointed in the City of New-York by the Supervisors, are also to act as Inspectors of Election at the polls. To prove this you cite the law, but in doing so you omit a part which is quite material.

Section 1 of the Statute says:

"The Board of Supervisors in the City of New-York shall annually appoint three Inspectors for each Election District in said City and County, to be known as the Board of Registry for the Election District in which they are appointed. * * * The said Inspectors so appointed for the City and County of New-York, and the Inspectors of Election in each of the other Election Districts in this State, shall meet annually on Tuesday, three weeks preceding the general election, at 9 o'clock A. M., at the place designated for holding the poll of said election, and organize themselves as a Board, for the purpose of registering the names of the legal voters in said District," &c., &c.

The law then provides for the appointment in the City of New-York of the Board of Registry as follows:

"The said Board of Supervisors shall assemble on the third Monday of September in each year, at 11 o'clock of the forenoon of that day, at the usual place of meeting of said Board, and proceed to ballot for the Inspectors provided for in this section, for said City. Each ballot * * * shall contain not more than three names for inspectors as aforesaid for such district. The three persons receiving the greatest number of votes for each Election District, shall be the Inspectors of such Election District for one year thereafter, and until others are appointed in their places."

Now it is very evident from the above that the Board of Registry in the City of New-York consists of Inspectors appointed by the Board of Supervisors, and that they are appointed especially to act as a Board of Registration. In all other Election Districts the Inspectors of Election are to constitute the Board of Registry.

After describing in section 1 those appointed in the City of New-York by the Supervisors as "three Inspectors to be known as the Board of Registry," the act speaks of them afterwards generally as "Inspectors," when it prescribes their duties as Registrars.

But in section 6 the law, after providing for the making, revising and correcting the "list" of voters, reads thus:

"After said list shall have been fully completed, the said Inspectors shall, within three days thereafter, cause four copies of the same to be made, each of which shall be certified by them to be a correct list of the voters of their district, one of which shall be filed in the office of Town Clerk of towns, and in cities in the office of the County Clerk of the county, and one of which copies shall be delivered to each of the said Inspectors, except in the City and County of New-York; one of said copies shall be delivered to each of the Inspectors of Election of the district in which such registry is made."

I think that the semi-colon after "New-York" above, is either a clerical or a typographical error; but either with or without it, it is plain that the Inspectors of Registry and the Inspectors of Election in the City of New-York are two distinct bodies.

Slavery in the Territories.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The Territories of the United States are governed under "The Congress shall have the power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the Territory of the United States," or under "a right to govern, the inevitable consequence of the right to acquire territory." Whether we believe in the sagacity of the framers of the Constitution to foresee and provide for the probable contingency of territorial acquisition, or in the Supreme Court denying them that perspicuity, the result is the same. The authority of Congress is limited or unlimited. If limited, its extent and boundaries may be found in the Constitution. The Constitution, as to Congress, contains enabling and restricting clauses. The former may not confer upon it its power of legislation over the Territories, but the latter control it. No man shall be deprived of his property without due process of law." This sentence prevents Congress or any Territorial Legislature from passing any acts which will deprive a slave-owner of his property in his slave. But the territories being open for settlement, organized under one of the usual territorial acts, if a slave there refuses to work, how can his labor be compelled? If he run away, what authority shall be invoked—what officer employed? The constitutional provision applies only between the States. Without a slave code, Slavery is impossible, because unprofitable. But a man is not deprived of his property by the omissions of either Congress or the Territorial Legislatures to pass acts which shall insure it in the Territory a permanence of that value which it possessed in the State. In equity and good faith, the South is entitled to such a code; but as a strictly legal claim, its position is not defensible.

Books Wanted for the Five Points School Library.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The ladies of the Five Points Mission (site of the Old Brewery) prefer an earnest request for books for their school library. The present stock has been read and reread by the children until its interest is exhausted. Books they will read, and if we do not supply them with good, they will read bad ones. It is a great object with the managers to give the children such means of amusement and instruction as may counteract the associations among which they are cast at home; and books are silent teachers, which accompany their pupils to the unwholesome abodes of poverty, and there are ever at hand to convey a lesson of virtue. The character of the child is greatly influenced by the books he reads. BRACE, who was hanged in California cursing his mother, and who, at the age of 22 years, had committed so many crimes, had adopted as his guide the History of Jack Sheppard.

Could the public see the eagerness with which our pupils turn over each new supply of library books, we should not long have to ask assistance from those whose almoners we are.

We do not want religious books exclusively, but such as convey a moral which may make their readers wiser and better; such books as the donors would give their own children. We do not need so large a proportion of "baby-books." These children are poor and in rags, but they are in their generation wiser than the children of light. Donations may be sent to

Note from Dr. Henry.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the report of the proceedings of the Diocesan Convention of the TIMES of this morning I am represented as "agreeing with the views of Mr. BRADISH," and it is left open to inference that I voted with him. This is a mistake I am very desirous to correct. I did not agree with the views of Mr. BRADISH, and I voted for the resolution which he voted against—the resolution in favor of Bishop ONDERDONK'S restoration.

All my agreement with Mr. BRADISH consisted in saying, that although it was, of course, for the House of Bishops to judge of their powers, yet I would not, any more than he, put myself in a position of asking them to do what I knew they had no legal and canonical power to do; and I called for my friend Judge HOFFMAN'S opinion as a canon lawyer on the point of the powers of the Bishops in the case. Very respectfully yours,

C. S. HENRY.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Saturday, Oct. 1, 1859.

More of the Syracuse Row—The Man that Struck Stryker.

We have received the following affidavit from CORNELIUS WOOD, who, in the Democratic Convention at Syracuse, knocked or pulled MR. JOHN STRYKER, President of the Convention, off the platform:—

City and County of New-York ss.—CORNELIUS WOOD, being duly sworn, doth depose and say: That seeing so many false statements in the public Press, with reference to occurrences at the late Democratic State Convention, at Syracuse, and finding that injustice is done to many persons by an act of his own, in which Mr. JOHN STRYKER was pushed from the platform at the Convention, he is induced to make this deposition.

And deponent saith that he went to that Convention as a politician, to participate with others, in the excitement which always exists at such places; that holding an office at that time under MCINTYRE, BURNS & Co., contractors for the Government Public Store labor, he thought he could be of service to be present.

And this deponent further says that he received a ticket to enter the hall where the Convention was held, from a person whom he knew to belong to the political interest opposed to Mayor WOOD; that the ticket was signed by PETER CAGGER, and that he has reason to believe was sent to him by PETER CAGGER or ISAAC V. FOWLER, and that he considered himself as belonging to a party of men who intended to have a fight and break up the Convention, if directed to do so, but in which the deponent did not intend to participate. And this deponent further says, that when in Wieting Hall, after the Chairman was made, great confusion and noise took place; that Capt. RYNDERS commenced the row by threatening to beat some of the New-York delegates; that during the disturbances the deponent resolved to go upon the platform and push the man off; that this deponent did so, supposing at the time that he was doing right, and getting rid of the man who had no right to act as Chairman of the Convention. And this deponent further says, that if he had known that he was doing wrong, he would not have done what he did; that he has no doubt it was the intention of the persons who told him to go and push the Chairman off the platform, that he should push Mr. ALVORD off, and not Mr. STRYKER, and that he did not know one from the other, and supposed he was aiding the Cagger side of the question in what he did. And this deponent further says, that he does not know Mayor WOOD personally; that he had no connection with him before or at the Convention, and that he is not in any way connected with the Mozart Hall political organization, or Mr. WOOD.

CORNELIUS WOOD.

Sworn to this 1st day of October, 1859.

LETTER FROM CAPT. DE RIVIERE.

The following letter from DE RIVIERE appears in last evening's Express:

To the Editors of the New-York Express:

Allow me to publish through your valuable paper a correct statement of the facts concerning the difficulty between myself and Mr. MULLIGAN. There never was any motive of quarrel between us previous to the night of last week, when, entering a bowling saloon with a stranger and an Italian friend, MULLIGAN, half drunk, and surrounded by several friends, passed some insulting remarks towards me. To this I replied "I hear you and will see you again." He then remarked "I hope, Sir, you will meet me as a gentleman." I answered "certainly," and walked out. My friend also came out, and having understood nothing of what had occurred, "he not speaking the English language," was surprised to find himself surrounded by the whole party, insulted, and threatening weapons being drawn on him. I then challenged Mr. MULLIGAN. It was very difficult for me to find any friends speaking English, and especially as very few gentlemen would willingly have their names brought in connection with such a man as Mr. MULLIGAN. My friend, who could the best understand the language, carried my challenge, accepted the weapons proposed—navy six-shooters—and discussed the conditions, which were written so as to have no misunderstanding. The hour appointed was 4 P. M., at the ferry. I was there half an hour in advance, alone; my friends were there exactly at the time. We crossed on the other side, and there waited fully one hour for the other parties to come. At last, and when we were giving up all hopes of seeing them at all, they came about dusk.

Instead of being alone, as had been agreed upon, they were followed by a carriage full of outsiders, which they had faithfully promised not to do. Before marching towards the ground they began to propose a change in the weapons, offering single-barrel pistols which they had brought with them, and which we knew nothing about. This being declined, and a stop having been made on the road in a wood without any opening field, they proposed changing the distance. We refused, and they then refused to fight at our agreed-upon distance. My friend, at my request offered, as night was coming on, to draw for the distance, but even then they refused, and they withdrew, leaving us on the field, where we remained a quarter of an hour after them. I declare, and my friends will attest, that their statement is a lie. I now consider Mr. MULLIGAN as a cowardly ruffian, who, when full of rum, may have the pluck of insulting, in a bar-room, an unarmed and unprepared man, but who dares not fight me, or anybody, upon even and loyal terms; and this I am ready at any time to prove.

Yours, very respectfully,
CAPT. H. A. DE RIVIERE.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 3.

A Veterinary College.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A visit to the new Veterinary College, in Twenty-third-street, near Sixth-avenue, has given me great pleasure, and satisfied me that New-York at length possesses an institution where sick or lame horses are sure of receiving the best treatment, the want of which has long been seriously felt by the writer, in common with all other gentlemen who own horses. The building is admirably constructed, upon correct scientific principles, securing perfect ventilation, cleanliness and light, and is under the direct personal superintendence of Capt. RALSTON, late Veterinary Surgeon, I believe, in the British Cavalry, and perfectly qualified for the important office which he now holds. A personal examination of the premises, and a very little conversation with Capt. RALSTON, I think, will convince you that this institution deserves warm encouragement. A large sum of money has been expended on the edifice, and the best talent secured for its proper management. It only remains for the public to recognize its importance, by the support which it deserves.

My interest is only that of an amateur and horse-owner.

MONDAY, Oct. 3—P. M.

The Weekly Average of the Banks of the City of New-York, on Saturday, Oct. 1, 1859, present in the aggregate the following changes from the previous exhibit of Sept. 24:

Decrease in Loans	$20,968
Decrease in Specie	852,244
Decrease in Circulation	87,660
Decrease in Undrawn Deposits	416,800

Including the Clearing-house operations of the week, which show the inter-exchanges between the Banks, and including, also, the Sub-Treasury statement of Saturday, the following is the general comparison with the previous exhibit, and also with the movement this time last season:

COMPARATIVE RECAPITULATION.

	Oct. 2, 1858.	Oct. 1, 1859.	Sept. 24, 1859.
Capital	$67,325,000	$68,845,000	$68,645,000
Loans	123,659,690	118,268,752	119,387,320
Specie	28,533,185	19,259,126	20,660,436
Circulation	7,875,750	8,337,702	8,357,206
Gross Deposits	104,901,563	91,823,441	93,460,470
Exchanged	19,035,193	21,011,396	20,729,871
Undrawn	85,866,370	70,812,105	72,730,599
In Sub-Treasury	11,100,000	5,230,467	5,190,520

The fall in the Averages is rather larger than generally anticipated in all departments, and appears to have run through nearly all the Banks up town, as well as in Wall-street. The decrease in Loans is made nearly consistent with the loss in Specie, and the two create a reduction in the liabilities on the net Deposit line of nearly $2,000,000. In point of actual strength, therefore, the condition of the movement is not essentially weakened by the recent export of Specie; though some surprise continues to be expressed that the Money Market is made no dearer by these changes. To-day we hear of lists of 4@6 months paper, being done outside of Bank at 6¾@7 ₱ cent., strictly first-class makers and indorsers, and of 6 months bills of the same class at 7@7½ ₱ cent. ₱ annum. Fair or single name paper from 8 to 10 ₱ cent. Demand loans among the Stock Brokers are 6 ₱ cent., with no very marked activity to-day. The disbursements from the Sub-Treasury are large, $469,000, against $207,000 receipts, including $80,000 from Customs. The balance is reduced to $4,968,642.

The Foreign Exchanges for the Boston mail open at the decline of ¼ ₱ cent. on London noticed at the close of last week. All the standard drawers are down to 110½, and transient Bank bills are 110@110¼ ₱ cent. On Paris the range is called, for standard bills f.5.15@f.5.13¾. The Bill Brokers complain of a dull business thus far, though the mails do not close until 1 o'clock tomorrow by rail and 4 P. M. by steamboat for Boston.

The Stock Exchange opened this morning with much steadiness, and on reaching the Share list the market took a large amount of New-York Central at 81½@81¾ ₱ cent., the prices of Saturday, and two of the Western Roads, Galena and Rock Island, were firmer, and ¼@¾ ₱ cent. higher on the first call. The other Shares were also steady, and in somewhat better request. But prices weakened as the dealings of the day progressed, and in the afternoon lower sales were made all round, partly no doubt on the influence of the loss of Specie on the Bank Averages. The State Stocks held steady; Missouris improved in demand, and left off 83¾@84 ₱ cent. The final closing of New-York Central was 80½ ₱ cent, being 1 ₱ cent. down from the last price of Saturday; Rock Island, 66¾@66½, after selling at 67½ in the morning, and Galena, 73¾@74; Reading, 44¼@44½; Michigan Central, 43@43½; Michigan Guaranteed, 22½@22¾; Illinois Central, 66@66½; Panama, 117@117½; Toledo, 21½@21¾; Harlem Preferred, 35¼@35¾, and Erie, $5 the Share. The General Market closed heavy. The shares of the Pacific Mail Company were an exception, being in request at 80 ₱ cent., on the announcement that the extra steamers of the Company will take the Mails on the 5th October for account of the Johnson contract, through Nicaragua if the route is found passable, or otherwise vid Panama as usual. The St Louis will be the steamer on this side, and the Oregon will be placed at the disposition of the contractor on the other. Such, at least, is the latest current rumor of the Street.

The Evening Post remarks, this afternoon, that:

It has transpired that a move is on foot having for its object a thorough change in the administration of the Clearing-House Association. The annual election takes place to-morrow, and the canvassing for votes is consequently very active. The administration of our banks is too important a matter to be trifled with, and the heads of those institutions who have looked with satisfaction upon the conduct of the committees and officers of the Association will, we think, do well to inquire into the interior objects of the movement before committing themselves in its favor. We are quite sure that we see in the movement the opposition of the anti-conservative banks against the conservative.

We apprehend that the nature of this movement is much distorted, not intentionally so by our neighbor, but on information not wholly disinterested. Mr. TILESTON, the respected Chairman of the Association, will probably ask to be relieved after a six years' steady service, and whatever other changes may be made, we doubt not they will be on the honest suggestion of as conservative members of the Association as others now in higher favor with the old rule at the Clearing-House.

The New-Orleans Picayune of Sept. 24 thus reports on Bank and Exchange affairs in that city:

"Nothing has occurred to-day to materially alter the leading features of the Money market, as delineated in our last. The general movement in Discounts, Stocks and Exchange was limited, and rates ruled about the same as at the close of business yesterday. The Banks, without an exception, so far as we have been advised, refused to sell Sight Checks on the Northern cities under ⅛ ₱ cent. premium. But it was dealt in freely out of doors at ⅛ discount to par. Sixty-day bills were in better inquiry, but transactions were restricted, owing to the limited supply in the hands of Brokers. Francs were also in good demand, and some round amounts were taken within the range of our quotations. Sterling exhibited but little, if any variation. Offerings are still light, and there is no anxiety to buy any class of bills. On the whole the market may be said to have closed steady at previous quotations, which we repeat as follows: Clear Sterling Bills 9¼@9¾ ₱ cent. premium. Bill of Lading Drafts 8¼@8¾ ₱ cent. premium. Francs f.5.21¼@f.5.15 ₱ dollar. Sixty-day Bills on New-York, &c., 1@1¼ ₱ cent. discount. Sight ¼ discount to par@⅜ ₱ cent. premium."
